PREFACE

In preparing this family record, I am indebted to various members of the family who have very generously assisted me in my effort to collect reliable information by contributing much that would otherwise have been beyond my reach. Original documents and personal correspondence, handed down from the days of our forefathers, have been placed at my disposal, and from them I have been able to cull much that is of interest. With regard to the American Branch of the family I have been particularly fortunate in the collaboration of Mr. J. Lawrence Boggs, of Newark, New Jersey, whose intimate knowledge of that branch of the family has given to us what we know about its members. His genuine interest and hearty support in the production of this record have been an indispensable factor in its growth and publication. From his very valuable collection of old letters, wills, and business papers, which have been accessible to me, a collection which represents the work of years, I have gathered much that is found in the earlier pages of the record, as well as some of the copies of old documents found in the Appendix.

For information regarding certain of the families which have intermarried with the Nova Scotia Branch, I am particularly indebted to Rev. Arthur W. H. Eaton, D. D., of Boston, Mass., who has very kindly made available to me the results of his extensive and valuable research along these lines.

I have also been able to consult the old records of Newcastle County, Delaware, in the Court House at Wilmington; records in the Library of the Pennsylvania Historical Society in Philadelphia; the parish records of St. Paul's Church, Halifax, Nova Scotia, with which Dr. James Boggs and his wife were connected during the last forty-five years of their lives, and the church home of not a few of their descendants. The tombstones in old St. Paul's and Camp Hill Cemeteries in Halifax have also yielded information, and much has been gathered from old newspaper files and other records in the Provincial Library at Halifax.

In my attempt to gather information, I have been repeatedly confronted by the fact that what was known to many of the generation which has almost gone is now beyond our reach. As a boy I have listened with intense interest to tales of other days told by my grandfather, which would be of great value in making this record, but, alas, they have gone with the one that told them and naught remains but a hazy recollection. Much has gone that we might have retained and ought to have recorded, and the loss emphasizes the desirability of preserving from a similar fate that which we still have from the past.

The arrangement and method adopted in preparing this record are, I believe, those regularly made use of in family histories. The name of each head of a family appears in capitals, with a small numeral at the right and above the line, indicative of the number of the generation to which he belongs, and a serial number preceding the name in the left hand margin. Immediately following the name, and in parentheses, are the names of his father, grandfather, and so on, each of which is attended by the little numeral on the right, indicative of the number of his generation, and thus showing the line of descent of the individual whose record is under review. The name of each head of a family appears twice in the record with a serial number attached; first, among those of the children in his father's family, and preceded by its serial number; and second, when he appears as head of a family, in which connection his personal history is given as far as known. Thus reference becomes simple indeed.

Names of unmarried male children, or those who died without issue, and of female children, appear only once in the record, among the children of the family into which they were born, and in that connection all that is known of them is found.

An effort has been made to give the names and brief information, as far as possible, of the children of the daughters who have married into other families, but this has not been regularly attempted beyond one generation. In some cases information regarding the grandchildren of the daughters has been available and has been incorporated in the record, but in general it has been practicable only to follow the line of the daughters to one generation.

An Appendix will be found to contain brief records of families into which members of the Boggs Family have married, so far as such records have been available, and copies of original letters, wills, and other documents. In considering the records of other families, the object has been simply to trace the descent of the individual through whom the connection has come about and not at all to give the history of that family, or names of other members of it.

An Index is also found covering the main portion of the book.

INTRODUCTORY

The family which forms the subject of this record came to America early in the eighteenth century from the north of Ireland, probably from County Tyrone, and settled in Delaware. It is recorded that between the years 1726 and 1750 a very large number of Irish from Ulster* emigrated to Pennsylvania. Before 1726 about 6,000 had arrived and from that time on until 1750 the failure of crops in Ulster was responsible for an annual immigration into that state and Delaware of about 12,000. Of these nearly all were Presbyterians. Holmes American Annals, Vol. II, p. 123, tells us that in 1729 as many as 4500 passengers and servants from Ireland arrived in New Castle, Delaware. It is probable that the immigrant ancestors of all the various branches of the Boggs family in the United States and Canada were among these settlers. There are not a few who bear the Boggs family name in Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Maine and other parts of the United States and Canada, and it is significant that all these families hold traditions of North of Ireland ancestry but thus far it has not been possible to trace relationship though there are reasons for the belief that all come from a common stock.

Some of the Boggs traditions are of considerable interest and worthy of mention. It may also be said that while

*Reasons for the Emigration from Ulster:

1. To better their position financially.
2. To escape certain discriminations and enactments against Presbyterianism in Ulster, which were imposed by ecclesiastics of the Episcopal or State Church; they might not hold office in Ireland; were taxed for the support of the Episcopal clergy; their marriages had to be performed by a Bishop-ordained priest, either Episcopal or Roman; marriages performed by Presbyterian ministers were annulled and the offspring declared illegitimate.
3. Tariff against all Irish woollens or linens.
4. Enhanced rentals.

these have without doubt been modified and added to with the passing of the years and the transmission from individual to individual and generation to generation, there is a truth underlying each which, when we are able to identify it and separate it from the accretions of the years, will lead us to a more definite knowledge of the history of the family.

The Boggs family of Maine preserve the story that their forefathers, William, John and George Boggs came from the north of Ireland, and that they or their forbears reached Ireland from Scotland whence they fled religious persecution. Another version of their tradition is that the family had come to Scotland from Holland where they were a noble family bearing the name of Bogues, which may be French in its origin.*

One of the stories which has come down in the line of the particular Boggs family which this record is designed to consider, tells us that one of the ancestors of the family was a native of Cumberland County, in the north-west of England; that he went over to the north of Ireland, where he married an Irish lady; that on that account he settled in Ireland; and from there the family came to Delaware. According to notes left by Robert Boggs Blauvelt (page 22), a great-great-grandson of Ezekiel Boggs, our immigrant ancestor, it was Ezekiel himself who was born in Cumberland, and who came over and settled in the neighbourhood of Londonderry, Ireland.

Another idea that prevailed among members of our family in former times was that the original name of our family was not Boggs, but Livingston, and that the name Boggs came from the locality where they resided. They were originally the Livingstons of the bogs. By degrees the different members of the family came to be known as John, William, or James (Livingston) of the bogs, and gradually the Livingston was altogether dropped and the members of the family became John, James, or William Boggs.

The member of this family who was preeminently qualified to discover and pass on the family history was "Aunt Rebecca" Boggs. She was the unmarried daughter of Dr. James and Mary Morris Boggs, and a granddaughter of the immigrant ancestor. Born in 1773, probably within forty-five years of the arrival of the family in America, intensely loyal to her family and interested in its history, making her home with her parents for nearly sixty years, Rebecca was in a position as no one else, to learn from them all that they knew of the early history of the family, and we are warranted in accepting that which she related, as in the main dependable. In all probability it was through her that most of our traditions have come, though they have certainly met with changes in the process of transmission. Rebecca who lived with her parents in Halifax, Nova Scotia, spent the winter of 1838-1839 visiting the families of her brothers, Robert and James, in

New Jersey and New York; and it was during this visit that Julia Augusta Boggs, daughter of James, and afterwards Mrs. Livingston, learned much of the family from her Aunt Rebecca and committed it to writing. Julia was an enthusiastic student of such things and we are indebted to her for much which has been preserved in this connection.

According to Mrs. Livingston, during the first half of the eighteenth century there lived in the north of Ireland, in the neighborhood of the town of Londonderry, one Ezekiel Boggs, a member of the Boggs family which was, until very recently, represented in Londonderry and Moyville and thereabouts. This Ezekiel Boggs married one Elizabeth Baird, an orphan and heir to landed property in the vicinity of Londonderry, on which mills were located. During her minority the property had been appropriated by a Roman Catholic party, known as "the *Whiteboys," who refused to relinquish it. When the heiress attained her majority she determined to recover her inheritance, and accompanied by the Sheriff of Londonderry, his son, and a posse of constables, she rode up to the gates of the property which she found to be securely fastened. A summons by the Sheriff, to surrender the estate, was greeted by a volley of musketry, and the son of the Sheriff was wounded. The heiress turned her horse away, saying, "I'll not seek my own at the price of blood," and abandoned her effort to recover her lost inheritance.

This tradition comes to us in a slightly different dress which adds somewhat to the story and sheds a little more light on our search. According to this we find that a Mrs. Boggs and her brother fled from Ireland on account of some rebellion. They came to Philadelphia where they resided for some time. Afterward Mrs. Boggs returned to Ireland to get possession of some property near Londonderry. The title to the estate was contested and in the court decided in her favor. The sheriff was ordered to put her in possession of the property, but on the way to discharge this duty he was killed and Mrs. Boggs was kept out of possession still longer. At some later period her son went over to Ireland in order to obtain possession but about this time the house in which were the deeds, and other papers on which the title rested, was destroyed by fire and with it all the papers were burned up and all claims to the property lost.

Mrs. Livingston's story continues that Ezekiel Boggs married Elizabeth Baird and emigrated to America, settling in Delaware County, Pennsylvania. It is probable that the husband died soon after the birth of the two children James

*The Standard Dictionary says: "The Whiteboys were a lawless band of Irish agrarian agitators organized about 1761, to restore rights of commons and redress tenant wrongs, who perpetrated wanton reprisals upon landlords, agents, tax collectors, the Protestant clergy, and others: so called from their wearing white outer garments, the better to see each other."

and Rebecca, when the widow removed with her children to New Jersey. Entertaining the hope of still being able to recover the Irish inheritance, the widow undertook to educate her son to be a lawyer, thus qualifying him to go over to Ireland, and do all that was possible to recover the property. He was educated in the family of one Dr. Alison, who was later connected with Princeton University, and was one of five to thus enjoy the privileges of that home. Of the others one became Chief-Justice Marshall, one Charles Thompson, Speaker of the first Congress, and one Judge McKean of Philadelphia. When the boy had completed his studies and was about to enter a law office, his mother's house was destroyed by fire, and with it all the papers and documents by which they had hoped to establish claim to the estate in Ireland, and as a consequence all hope of ever recovering the inheritance. The chief object in the study of law having been removed, and the study of law being distasteful to the young man, he abandoned it and entered upon the study of medicine, and prepared for his future life work.

It was Mrs. Livingston's belief that the family is to be identified with the Boggs family of Ballybrook House, Moville, County Donegal, North of Ireland, and her letters indicate that her father, James Boggs, fully recognized this relationship, and was accustomed to speak of a certain Mr. Major of New York, a relative of the Irish family, as his cousin. In this connection there is a letter written by Mrs. Livingston, dated Dec. 2nd, 1880, to her cousin, Mary Blauvelt (page 22), recording an interesting incident. She tells of some Boggs family silver, in the possession of her sister Mary Ray. She wished to find a reliable woman to come in and clean the silver, and one presented herself and gave a reference to a Miss Major of New York, a friend of Mrs. Ray. Miss Major said that the woman had been brought up in Ireland, in the family of the uncle of Miss Major, Mr. Sam. Major. While the woman was at work cleaning the silver she remarked to the servant whom she was assisting: "This silver must have belonged to Mr. Sam Major in Ireland, for it is marked just like the silver that he used to have when I was in his family." The reply was: "This silver belonged to Mrs. Ray when she was Miss Boggs." And the woman remarked that Mr. Sam Major's silver came from his mother, who was a Miss Boggs.

A letter written by Beaumont Boggs (Thomas, Thomas, James, Ezekeiel) of Victoria, British Columbia, dated Jan. 27th, 1916, says "the old home of the Boggs family was just outside of the walls of Derry, and upon the site of it some of the family lived until about 12 years ago, when upon the death of Major Boggs, his widow and two children, Nugent and his sister removed to the Canadian North West. They visited me here in Victoria. Nugent entered the bank of Commerce, but later became interested in Grand Trunk bonds and returning to Ireland, through the cooperation of the Marquis of Londonderry, formed a syndicate to operate in Canada."

An effort to verify the traditions which have been referred to has proven most interesting and has been attended by some satisfactory results. In the Office of the Register of Wills, Newcastle County, Delaware, at Wilmington, there is a will recorded, made by one Rebecca Baird, widow, of Newcastle, dated Jan. 28th, 1740, and proved March 3rd, 1741, a copy of which will be found in the Appendix. In this will mention is made of the testatrix' daughter Elizabeth, wife of Ezekiel Boggs, and her grandchildren Rebecca and James, children of Ezekiel and Elizabeth Boggs. Ezekiel is made executor of the will. In the will mention is also made of her son Robert Baird.

In the Kittochtinny Magazine, Chambersburgh, Pennsylvania, G. O. Seilhamer, Editor and Publisher, 1905, Vol. I, pp. 95 et seq., in the New York Public Library, there are the following notes relating to the Baird family:—John Baird or Beaird, son of James Baird, smith, of Strabane, County Tyrone, Ireland was settled in Christiana Hundred,* Newcastle County, Delaware, as early as 1728. The name of his wife was Rebecca. She was in Ireland in 1729, with their son Robert, where she executed deeds of lease and release, July 4 and 5, 1729, under a power-of-attorney from her husband, dated Feb. 4th, 1728-29, for his interest in his father's estate." Confirmatory of this we find in the Office of Registry of Deeds, Wilmington, Delaware, three entries in which John Baird is involved:—I, Vol. G. I. p. 485, Dated May 21st, 1725, recording sale of land by Herman Henchey to John Beard, blacksmith, of Christiana Hundred, near Red Clay Creek. II, Vol. I. I. p. 185, Dated Jan. 29th, 1729, recording sale of same property, consisting of about 300 acres, by John Beard, blacksmith, of Chester County, Pennsylvania, and Rebecca his wife, to one Daniel Barker of Christiana Hundred, in the County of Newcastle-on-Delaware, yeoman. III, Vol. M. I. p. 267, Dated May 15th, 1739, recording the quit claim of Rebecca Baird, of the town of Newcastle, widow, relict of the late John Baird of Chester County, Pennsylvania, in the matter of the property sold by John Baird, as recorded in Vol. I. I. p. 185, to Daniel Barker, but which had by this time become the property of Archibald Hamilton of Newcastle County, and William Passmore of Chester County,

*The term "hundred," used only in Delaware of all the states of the Union, designated the sub-division of a county into what are known in other states as townships. The term is of Swedish origin and originally meant groups or settlements of 100 families or persons. The Swedes first settled Newcastle County, and their division of the county into "hundreds" has persisted. In Newcastle County there are the following hundreds: Brandywine, Christiana, Mill Creek, White Clay Creek, Newcastle, Pencader, Red Lion, St. George's, Appoquinimink, and Blackbird.

Pa. On consideration of the payment by them to Rebecca Baird, of £5 she relinquishes all claim on the property. The necessity for this appears when we remember that according to the statement from the Kittochtinny Magazine given above, at the time that John Baird sold this property Jan. 29th, 1729, his wife Rebecca was in Ireland, and could not sign the deed of transfer.

Mr. J. Lawrence Boggs of Newark, New Jersey, has in his possession, a letter written on Jan. 29th, 1762, from Strabane, Ireland, by one William Baird to James Boggs, son of Ezekiel. A copy of this letter is found in the Appendix. In this letter William Baird, a man of 87 years of age, addresses James Boggs as "Dear Cosen" and in the postscript he speaks of himself as "your most frandly Unkel." This letter was written to James Boggs in reply to an enquiry he had made of his old Irish relative, regarding property in Ireland which he may have had some idea of trying to get possession of. The old man tells him of property at Strabane, and Creeduff, in County Tyrone, which had been left to James Boggs' grandfather John Baird and his heirs, by James Baird, the father of the writer William Baird. He refers to those in possession of these estates at the time of writing and one would infer from the letter that there was some crooked work in connection with the possession by those individuals. Mention is also made of James Boggs' grandmother and the fact of her having property in her own right.

From these three sources we have confirmation of some of the elements in the traditions. It is established that the family is traceable to Ezekiel and Elizabeth (Baird) Boggs. That there was an inheritance in Ireland is also proven, though it would appear that it was the grandmother of James Boggs, rather than his mother, that was immediately concerned. That there was trouble in Ireland connected with the estate is shown, and that Rebecca Baird and her son Robert were in Ireland on business connected with the estate is also seen to be a fact. And thus in the main the traditions have been found to be worthy of credence.

In connection with Mrs. Livingston's story as to the education of James Boggs, we learn certain facts which help to confirm it. It is known that Dr. Francis Alison, a man of rare scholarship, came to America in 1734, and was employed for a time as tutor in the family of John Dickinson. One of the sons of this Dickinson afterward became the first President of Princeton. In 1741, Dr. Alison opened a private academy at New London, Chester County, Pennsylvania. He became Vice-Provost of the College of Philadelphia in 1755, and continued in that office until his death in 1779. Among his famous pupils were Charles Thompson, Speaker of the first Congress, Chief-Justice Marshall, Judge McKean of Philadelphia. It is probable that, as Mrs. Livingston tells us, Ezekiel's son James Boggs was a pupil in the private academy of Dr. Alison, and that he may have been associated with Charles Thompson, Marshall, and McKean, for he was a contemporary, though somewhat younger than they.

CHAPTER II

The Boggs Family Prior to 1783

1. EZEKIEL BOGGS¹. Ezekiel Boggs, as we have seen in the preceding chapter, was born probably in the north of Ireland, and after his marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of John and Rebecca Baird of Strabane, County Tyrone, Ulster, emigrated to America and settled in New Castle County, Delaware, where he was resident in March 1741, as is proved by the will of Rebecca Baird, referred to on page 5. When or where he died is not certainly known but as his estate was administered in 1756, it is presumable that he died about that time, and probably in Newcastle.

With regard to Ezekiel there are certain references to be found in the old records of Newcastle County. In the Office of the Register of Wills at Wilmington, Del., a careful search reveals no will of either Ezekiel or his wife, Elizabeth, but in the Orphan's Court it is recorded that in 1756 one Robert McKean appeared as administrator of the estate of the late Ezekiel Boggs, which amounted to £23-15-9. In the Office of Record of Deeds at Wilmington there are two deeds in which Ezekiel is involved:—I, Vol. N. I. p 143. Dated 18th February, 1740, recording the sale by one James Moore of Chester Town, in Kent County, in the Province of Maryland, bricklayer, to Ezekiel Boggs of the town of Newcastle-on-Delaware, maltster, of a piece of land lying in the town of Newcastle, fronting the green or market place and measuring 78 feet by 111 feet, the price being £121-16-0. II, Vol. 2. I. p. 517, dated April 2nd, 1751, recording the sale, by Ezekiel Boggs of Newcastle, in the County of Newcastle, innholder, and Elizabeth his wife, of the property purchased in 1740 from James Moore, lying in the town of Newcastle, to William Patterson, Esq., of Christiana Bridge, Newcastle County, the price being £200 proclamation money.

In the Pennsylvania Magazine, published by the Pennsylvania Historical Society, Vol. 38, p. 386 et seq., we find an account of the journal of John Watson, Assistant Surveyor to the Commissioners of the Province of Pennsylvania, 1750. The manuscripts are found in the Manuscript Department of the Society. The journal pertains to an expedition made by the Commissioners to attempt to settle a long contest over the boundary lines between the Provinces of Pennsylvania and Maryland. Among the manuscripts are found the Minutes of the joint Commission which met at Newcastle-on-Delaware, in November 1750. The following quotations have reference to Ezekiel Boggs:—"Commissioners Hopkinson, and Francis, and Parsons, Scull, and Grew, with their servants and horses, found en route, quarters at the tavern of James Mather, in Chester, and later all the Commissioners from Pennsylvania were entertained for ten days at the hostelry of Ezekiel Boggs in Newcastle." On Nov. 15th, another entry reads:—"Set out about 9 for Newcastle where we came about 1 in the evening or afternoon. Dined at one Boggs I think they call the L. Lord, with William Parsons, N. Scull, Samuel Peters and . . ." On Nov. 25th, another entry:—"Gave the hostler when I left Boggs's at Newcastle in the morning 1s."

It is not known when Ezekiel's marriage with Elizabeth Baird took place, nor have we any definite record of Elizabeth's death. A letter written by their son James Boggs, at Shrewsbury, New Jersey, dated Oct. 8th, 1771, which is in the possession of Mr. J. Lawrence Boggs, of Newark, says "I have just had the disagreeable news of my mother's being extremely ill and past all hopes of Recovery & that she is very anxious to see me which distresses me greatly that I cannot go to see her immediately having several Patients very ill at present & neither Cash nor Cloathes sufficient. . . . I must set out for Newcastle as soon as ever my Patients will let me and I can be furnished with Cash." On May 28th, 1766, Mary, wife of James Boggs, writing from Shrewsbury, N. J., to her brother, Robert Morris, speaks of a proposed visit, the following week, to Philadelphia and thence to Newcastle, which place was afterward mentioned in the letter of James as quoted above in connection with his mother's illness. On July 23rd, 1766, Mary, in writing again to her brother, speaks of having "spent a month on our last jaunt," referring evidently to the visit to Newcastle, early in June. Again, on Nov. 15th, 1772, Dr. Boggs wrote from Burlington, to his brother-in-law Robert Morris, "Molly and I are so far on our journey for Philadelphia—we expected to have been there a fortnight ago, but I could not leave home I don't expect to go to Newcastle." From these quotations we conclude that the widow of Ezekiel Boggs was resident at Newcastle, at least up to October 1771, and that there were members of the family still living there in November 1772, which would lead Dr. and Mrs. Boggs to consider making a visit to that place, a distance of upwards of 90 miles, a journey not to be lightly undertaken in those days of slow and difficult locomotion, and four small children had to be counted on as companions on the journey.

Ezekiel and Elizabeth (Baird) Boggs had issue:—

REBECCA². Of the dates of her birth or death we have no record, but we know that she was older than her brother, for in the will of the grandmother, Rebecca Baird, which was made only six days after the birth of James, Rebecca was made residuary legatee. Rebecca Boggs was married on April 30th, 1772, to Charles Risk, a merchant of Philadelphia. From correspondence which is in possession of Mr. J. Lawrence Boggs, we know that she was still alive in 1789 but a letter from Robert Morris, to her nephew James Boggs, dated Jan. 29th, 1794, in which he sends "respects to Mr. and Miss Risk," lead us to believe that she was not alive at that time. Charles Risk died in the latter part of 1794, for his will*, which is recorded in the Office of Wills at Philadelphia, was made on Oct. 4th, 1794, and proved December 5th, 1794. Rebecca and Charles Risk had one child:—

Rebecca Risk³ who married, September 18th, 1794, Joshua Bond† of Philadelphia. He was a man of sporting instincts and a great patron of horse racing. So much was he devoted to such things that his home life was very greatly interfered with.

*The Will of Charles Risk, drawn Oct. 4th, 1794, recorded in the Office of Wills, City Hall, Philadelphia, mentions brothers and three sisters in Ireland, to whom he leaves 30 guineas: "Kinsman James Boggs, Jr. 70 guineas: My dear and only child Rebecca Bond, £200 a year during her natural life, to her sole and separate use without the intervention of her husband, chargeable and charged upon my Mansion House in Front Street, in the City of Philadelphia: all my real estate in said city unto my kinsman, James Boggs and to his heirs forever, in trust for the said Rebecca, during her natural life, and after her death, for the use of all her children in fee simple: lastly, I constitute my son-in-law Joshua Bond, and my nephew James Boggs, Executors of this my Will and Testament" . . . The testator did not sign his name but made his mark. The will was proved and probate granted to Joshua Bond and James Boggs, Executors, Dec. 5th, 1794.

†In the Wills Office, Philadelphia, Administration, Vol. M., p. 227, record of administration of the estate of Joshua B. Bond is found, dated Aug. 16th, 1820, for $13,200, George Billington, Attorney, being authorized as administrator by Thos. S. Bond, brother of the deceased. The Philadelphia Directory for 1791, gives Charles Risk as a merchant at 40 South Water St., and 39 South Front Street. The book "Philadelphia and Her Merchants," on page 160, refers to Joshua B. Bond, 39 Front Street. This would seem to identify the Joshua Bond whose estate was administered by George Billington, with the husband of Rebecca Risk.

In 1797, James and Samuel Boggs, sons of Dr. James Boggs, were lodging with their cousin Mrs. Bond in Philadelphia.

The will of Dr. James Boggs, dated May 9th, 1819, bequeathed $200 to his "niece, Rebecca Bond, of Philadelphia."

In 1819 the Bonds were still living. They had no issue.

2. JAMES², b. January 22nd, 1740; m. Mary Morris.

2. JAMES BOGGS,² (*Ezekiel*¹). James Boggs was born at Newcastle, in Newcastle County, Delaware, Jan. 22, 1740, and died in Halifax, Nova Scotia, July 8, 1830, in his 91st year, "justly beloved and respected by his family and friends." He was buried in the old St. Paul's Cemetery, opposite Government House in Halifax.

In an old bond given by James Boggs, he styles himself as "of the Township of Shrewsbury, in the County of Monmouth, New Jersey, Practitioner of Physick." On April 30th, 1764, an entry was made in an old account book which was kept by one Sarah Robinson at Tinton, after the sudden death of Tinton's owner, Robert Hunter Morris, the father of Mary Morris, who married Dr. James Boggs. That entry reads "To Cash to Dr. Boggs for tending John's arm." As Dr. Boggs was then only 24 years of age we are led to conclude that he was but just beginning his medical practice. We have noted on pages 4 and 6 that in all probability Dr. Boggs received his elementary education in the private academy of Dr. Francis Alison in New London, Chester County, Pa. It is probable too that his medical education was received in the office of some medical doctor, since the first regular medical school established in America, the Medical College of the University of Pennsylvania, did not graduate its first class until 1765, at which date Dr. Boggs was already engaged in practice in or near Shrewsbury, New Jersey. It is possible that he studied medicine at Wilmington, Del., which is only six miles distant from his home at Newcastle. At the time, there lived in Wilmington, one Dr. John McKinley, who came from the north of Ireland and settled there, a man who, in his day, was a noted physician and one deeply interested in everything pertaining to the good of his adopted country. Under what circumstances Dr. Boggs became established in practice in Shrewsbury we do not know. We do know that Robert Hunter Morris was the Chief Justice of New Jersey, and was a man of wide influence and large acquaintance in both Pennsylvania and New Jersey, as well as the owner of a large estate, "Tinton Manor," at Tinton, N. J. Then inasmuch as Dr. Boggs came to the vicinity of Tinton, and began his practice, and we learn that thus early in his career he was called professionally to Tinton Manor, the interesting question arises, did Robert Hunter Morris discover the young physician and induce him to come to the Tinton neighborhood to start his medical career? An added interest attaches to this question when we remember that, in the following year, Dr. Boggs married Mary, daughter of Robert Hunter Morris. Dr. Boggs manifested a great interest in the promotion of the science of medicine, was "highly esteemed as a physician, and was a prominent member of The New Jersey Medical Society."

An old deed is still extant, recording the transfer to Dr. Boggs by Stauffel Logan, blacksmith of Shrewsbury, of 111 acres of land in the township of Shrewsbury, for the sum of £777, New York currency. The deed indicates that this property was a part of what was known as "Tinton Manor," and that Logan had purchased 25 acres of it from Tennis Dennis, May 10th, 1760, and 86 acres from Guizebeth Van Mater on March 10th, 1773. Immediately after purchasing the property Dr. Boggs put up necessary buildings and prepared the place for the residence of his family.

When the Revolution broke out in 1776, Dr. Boggs espoused the cause of the British, and when the American party arrested a number of loyalists, he, fearing a similar fate, escaped to Sandy Hook, where he was taken aboard the "Swan," sloop-of-war. He continued with the British throughout the war, and "acted as Surgeon's mate in the general hospital, at New York, from July 1777, until 1783, when he was appointed by Sir Guy Carleton, Assistant-Surgeon on the staff."

During the Revolutionary struggle, Dr. Boggs' wife and family lived at Shrewsbury and later at Black Point, New Jersey, and while the English were in possession of New York, he was obliged to visit his family stealthily, for fear of capture by the Revolutionary Guards. On one occasion when Dr. Boggs was making one of these visits to his family, his presence was suspected by the Americans and the house was searched. Mrs. Boggs, fearing something of the kind, had hidden her husband so successfully that when the Guards ransacked the place they failed to discover him. They carried off most of Mrs. Boggs' silver and attempted to remove her wedding ring, but she resisted and saved it. This she was in a better position to do because of the influence of her brother Robert Morris, who himself was serving with the American forces. The Guards having completed their search of the Boggs house, entered an adjacent house where lived the family of one Captain Scudder, who, like Dr. Boggs, was a loyalist and on a visit to his family. He, however, was not so skilfully concealed and was discovered and taken out to the front of his house where he was hanged on one of the trees of his garden. The New Jersey Archives, Vol. IV. p. 153, record that "Capt. Isaac Scudder was captured at Newark, January 25th, 1780." On another occasion, Mrs. Boggs having received news that her husband was ill with fever, passed through the rebel lines and visited him.

Of the unsettled condition of the country and the effect of the separation on the family, we gather something from the letters written by Mrs. Boggs to her brother Robert Morris. In one of these, dated at Shrewsbury, May 12th, 1778, she says "I am quite incapable of the business of these times, having neither spirits, strength, or any other quality requisite for this bustling world. I feel myself very friendless. Perhaps the sight of you (my only friend here) may relieve me. Pray come if possible." By June 15th, 1779 the house and farm at Shrewsbury had been sold and possession given to one Elisha Shepherd. A letter addressed to Robert Morris, by Friend Edmund Williams, dated from Shrewsbury, "14th, 11mo., 1779" says "Robert Morris I left thy sisters a bout fore a'clock this afternoon found and left her and Family in health, tho in a good deal of Trouble (I wish thou was here) her wagin and horses are tacon by the Guards on Suggestion of Conveying a bed & on its way to New York John Tilton (an old colored slave belonging to the family. W. E. B.) was with it and seems unassy a bout the Consequences, its not yet Condemd and thy Sister Seem'd to be in hopes that they would return it to her again, but I believe she will not get it, without a Tryal, its said it was tacon Near a bote which came from York and had with it a bag of Salt which had James Boggs es name on it, with a Considerable Quantity of Merchant dize part of which is supposed to be the property of Some other persons." On the 27th April, 1780, Mrs. Boggs removed to Black Point, where she rented a house and farm of about 20 acres for £25 a year. Beside this she had "eight acres for tillage which with the assistance of our neighbours," she wrote, "we have got plowed up and planted." In this letter she says

"We could not procure our own horse again but have got a small mare from William Balsor she has more spirits than flesh and more age than either, so that our team is not quite so good as it has been." On May 24th, 1780, she wrote to her brother "have been very quiet from all sides in my new habitation as yet, should it continue so shall think myself very happy, but should I on a sudden find myself in the midst of the polite French nation as I hear is expected hope my good brother will not fail making me a visit when he can do it with so much safety to himself and pleasure to me, in the meantime should your leisure admit of your visiting this part of the country shall be happy to meet you anywhere you will appoint."

In the New Jersey Archives, Vol. IV. p. 248, we read that a public notice was issued, dated March 10th, 1780, with reference to certain "fugitives and offenders of Monmouth County, New Jersey," calling for all claims and demands against the estates of such offenders and fugitives, to facilitate the adjustment of their accounts, and Dr. James Boggs of Shrewsbury is among the names published in this notice.

In 1783 a commission of five members was appointed by the British Parliament, at the suggestion of the King, to investigate the claims and classify the losses and services of those who had remained loyal to the Crown and had left the United States in consequence. An Extract from the report of the Commission is found in the Appendix. According to this extract Dr. Boggs was a meritorious loyalist, and was awarded £630 sterling for his losses in New Jersey.

"Dr. Boggs was a friend of Lieut. Colonel Elisha Lawrence, of Monmouth County, N. J., who stated that lands in Dr. Boggs' neighbourhood sold for £8 or £9 per acre. He also stated that Dr. Boggs had a first class business as physician at Shrewsbury. Lawrence Hartshorne was another friend who said that the doctor's property was worth at least £1000. When Surgeon Boggs was driven from his home he had a practice of £150 a year."

When peace was made in 1783, Dr. Boggs was unable to remain in the United States and so removed, as one of the United Empire Loyalists, to Nova Scotia. On March 3rd, 1784, he was located at Port Matoun, near Liverpool, Nova Scotia, where he had been posted as Surgeon to a detachment of troops stationed there. On that date he wrote to his wife who, with the family, was still in New Jersey, giving her directions as to the journey which she was about to make to join him in Nova Scotia. This letter is still in the possession of one of the descendants of Dr. Boggs, living at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, and a copy of it will be found in the Appendix to this record. Later Dr. Boggs was posted to Halifax, where he was Surgeon to the Garrison, and to the household of H. R. H. Edward, Duke of Kent, the father of the late Queen Victoria, when he was Commander-in-Chief of H. M. Forces in Nova Scotia, and resided at Prince's Lodge, on Bedford Basin, near Halifax.

Military records state that on Nov. 18th, 1801, James Boggs was Garrison Surgeon at Halifax. In a copy of General Military Orders, issued Sept. 3rd, 1802, mention is made of James Boggs as Garrison Surgeon, Halifax, who is "to attend the sick of the 29th Regiment, at Halifax. He will also examine such men as choose to re-enlist in the 29th Regiment, from the Loyal Surrey Rangers." Dr. Boggs retired from the service in June 1810. The Army List for 1800 gives him as Garrison Surgeon on pay of £172-17-6. In 1810 this had been raised to £259-6-3. In the Army List for 1811 he appears both as Garrison Surgeon with pay as in 1810, and also on the English Half Pay List as a Retired Surgeon. In the List for 1816 he appears as Surgeon at Halifax with nett pay of 14s. 3d. per diem, but in 1818, only in the Medical Department on Half Pay, Retired Surgeon.

On October 24th, 1799, Dr. Boggs wrote to his son Robert, who was in New Jersey, and in this letter says "we have just received accounts of Seringapatam being taken & Tippoo killed and a most compleat victory obtained over him, so that the black Scoundrel will never disturb that quarter of the World any more."

In 1798, December 3rd, Thomas Boggs, writing from Halifax to his brother Robert in New Jersey, indicates that he is still living with his parents and has recently purchased a large house which they occupy and to which they invite their New Brunswick, N. J., relatives for a visit. In 1824 Dr. Boggs purchased from Lawrence Hartshorne, a small house and lot in Halifax situated next to the north east corner of Granville and Sackville Streets, for his own residence, for which he paid £500.

Dr. Boggs was married on November 24th, 1765, by Rev. Mr. Ogilvie, of New York, to Mary Morris, daughter of Robert Hunter Morris, Chief Justice of New Jersey. Mary Morris was born in New Jersey April 5th, 1746, and died at her home in Halifax, N. S., February 21st, 1831, in her 85th year. She was buried by the side of her husband in old St. Paul's Cemetery. Dr. Boggs and his wife and family were members of the Church of England, and for many years they were members of the congregation of St. Paul's in Halifax.

For some years before his death Dr. Boggs had to a very large extent, lost the use of his faculties. His son Thomas, writing to the eldest son Robert, October 10th, 1825, says "you will receive comfort from knowing that our excellent mother continues as clear and bright almost as ever—if anything could raise her in our love and respect it would be the cheerfulness she supports under the very many heavy trials father's loss of memory imposes upon her." Richard Tremaine, a son-in-law of Dr. Boggs, writing, March 8th, 1826, to Robert Boggs, his brother-in-law, says "Dr. B. seldom goes out and has no pleasure when he does—he requires some one with him and returns to his home as tho' he was a stranger to it. We ought to be very thankful that our good mother retains her faculties as she does, altho' she has enough to wear her out & yet I should not be surprised if both remain with us even for years to come."

A letter written by James Boggs, jr., to J. S. Blauvelt, Esq., (page 22) dated New York, Nov. 9th, 1832, says "My Father, by his will, directed three silver Salvers to be given to my late Brother Robert, with a request that they shall go at his death to his son Robert, But my mother, in her Will made after my Father's death, desires that these Salvers shall go to my Brother Thomas—but that he should pay the value of them or, as she says, 'a fair and reasonable compensation therefor', to the heirs of Robert M. Boggs. My Brother Thomas had them valued by two respectable Silversmiths—and they fix them at $69.50c. That is they weigh 52.5 oz., worth as they say 6s. 7½d. per oz: is £17-7-9¾ Halifax Currency. Six shillings & 7½d. of their money is $1.32½ which I think a full value. I have the certificate of value." This amount James Boggs proposed to pass to the credit of the estate of Robert Morris Boggs. These salvers are probably the same that are at present in the possession of Beaumont Boggs, Esq., (Thomas, Thomas, James, Ezekiel), of Victoria, British Columbia. They bear the arms of the Morris family, were handed down probably from Robert Hunter Morris, and belonged to the family of his father, Lewis Morris, of Morrisania.

James and Mary (Morris) Boggs had issue:—

3. ROBERT,³ b. November 13th, 1766; m. 1, Mary Morris, 2, Mary Lawrence, 3, Maria (Brenton) Stewart.

ELIZABETH,³ b. at Shrewsbury, N. J., February 25th, 1768. Entry in the Baptismal Register of Christ Church, Shrewsbury, April 3rd, 1768. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Cooke, and the sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Cooke, and Elizabeth Boggs (probably the grandmother). Elizabeth died in Halifax, Nova Scotia, May 26th, 1852, in her 85th year, after a long illness. She was married on December 29th, 1785, by Rev. Mr. Weeks, of Halifax, to John Stuart, Lieutenant in the 71st Regiment, a native of Perthshire, Scotland. He later became Colonel Stuart. He retired and lived at Cole Harbour, Halifax County, N. S., where he purchased a farm. This farm purchased in 1801, for £300, contained 400 acres. In 1807 Colonel Stuart was called from his farm at Cole Harbour, "to take the command of a Battalion of Militia, imbodyed for the defence of the country, enjoying the pay and emoluments of a Lieut. Colonel." On Jan. 2nd, 1808, Elizabeth wrote to her uncle, Robert Morris, thanking him for a gift of $500 she had recently received from him through her brother Thomas, and which had been applied to clearing off all the indebtedness on their Cole Harbour farm. The Stuart home at Cole Harbour dispensed hospitality freely and it became a place of great attraction to many of the young people of Halifax. The farm was sold and on June 11th, 1808, they were living at Halifax at a place called "Morris Field." (Morris Field was the name given to land lying south and east of the intersection of Morris and Hellis Streets.) Colonel Stuart died in Halifax January 15th, 1835, aged 82 years, and was buried in old St. Paul's Cemetery. Elizabeth, in 1850, had had several attacks of paralysis, rendering her physically helpless, but her faculties were to a large degree unimpaired. She survived her husband some 17 years and died in 1852, and was buried in Camp Hill Cemetery, Halifax.

On March 26th, 1861, Thomas Boggs (Thomas, James, Ezekiel) wrote "Aunt Rebecca, who has been living with us for the last year, is well in body but the mind completely gone." She was unmarried and lived with her parents until their death. It is said of "Aunt Rebecca" that she was particularly interested in and well informed in regard to the history of the family, and, being situated most advantageously for acquiring such information, she may be considered as an authority on the subject. As has already been said, we are indebted to her very largely, for much that we know of the family in the early days.

26. CHARLES,³ b. April 24th, 1775; m. Mary Fraser.

Samuel died at Wilmington, Delaware, April 24th, 1797, of yellow fever. He was educated at Rutgers College, by his uncle, Robert Morris. A bill was rendered to Judge Morris for £2-10-0 for one session Tuition for Samuel Boggs, by the Trustees of Queens College in New Jersey, dated April 11th, 1795. This bill is still extant, and is in the possession of Mr. J. Lawrence Boggs of Newark, N. J. In November, 1796, Samuel went to Philadelphia, after a few months spent in his uncle's, Judge Morris', office at New Brunswick, and became a clerk in the business of his brother James. He was unmarried.

MARY,³ b. August 28th, 1779, at Shrewsbury, N. J. She died very suddenly from an acute bilious attack, on May 19th, 1860, at the residence of her son-in-law, James Desbrisay, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, at the age of 80 years. She was married at Charlottetown, on May 13th, 1801, by Rev. Mr. Stanzer of Halifax, who became Bishop of Nova Scotia in 1816, to Richard S. Tremaine, a merchant of Halifax, N. S. Richard Tremaine was born at New York, June 20th, 1774, and died suddenly at Halifax, August 30th, 1854. The Tremaines lived at "Oakland" on the North West Arm, Halifax, N. S. On the death of Richard the property was sold to one of the members of the Cunard family, which established the celebrated Cunard Steamship Company.

Mary Tremaine was a woman of a very lovable disposition. Although she lived to be more than 80 years of age, she retained the use of her faculties up to the end. She was a great reader. Her death was greatly lamented by all her acquaintance.

CHAPTER III.

The American Branch of the Boggs Family.

3. ROBERT BOGGS³. (*James*², *Ezekiel*¹). Robert Boggs was born at Indian Neck, Tinton Falls, near Eatontown, New Jersey, Nov. 13th, 1766, at 3 P. M., and died at New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 11th, 1831, after a lingering illness caused by tumour of the stomach. The Baptismal Register of Christ Church, Shrewsbury, N. J., has an entry for Dec. 14th, 1766, and indicates that the ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Cooke; that it was a private one; and that the sponsors were Robert McKean, Theodore Maurice, and Elizabeth Stoddell.

Robert was seventeen years of age at the time the family removed from New Jersey to Nova Scotia, and he chose to remain in the United States. He studied law in the office of his uncle, Judge Robert Morris, and practiced his profession in New Brunswick, N. J. He was admitted Attorney-at-law in 1789, and Counsellor-at-law in 1794. He was Judge Advocate General of the New Jersey Militia, from 1794 to 1795. He was Clerk of the United States District Court from 1790 to 1815, and appointed Sergeant-at-law in 1816. He was elected a trustee of Rutgers College in 1800. An active and influential member of the Anglican Church, he was almost all his life connected with Christ Church, New Brunswick, holding office frequently. He was Clerk of the Convention; member of the Standing Committee; Deputy to the General Convention. He was Vestryman and Clerk of the Parish in 1793. He continued an active and prominent member of the vestry until his death. His remains were interred in Christ Churchyard, New Brunswick, where his tombstone bears this inscription:—"Born November 13th 1766. Died January 11th, 1831. 'This mortal shall put on immortality. For the trumpet shall sound and the dead shall be raised'."

Robert was one of the executors of the will of his uncle, Robert Morris, who died in June 1815, and it would seem from the correspondence that has survived the years, regarding this duty, that it was by no means a small task, extending, as it did, over several years, and entailing a vast amount of correspondence. The settlement of the two wills, that of Robert Hunter Morris, and that of his son, Robert Morris, loomed up as a business of prodigious importance and almost interminable work and worry for all the members of the family in the days of Robert Boggs and his contemporaries.

Robert Boggs was married three times. His first wife, whom he married on May 28th, 1795, was his cousin, Mary Morris, daughter of Judge Robert Morris. She was born at Newark, N. J., in Feb. 1775, and died at New Brunswick, N. J., June 24th, 1799, aged 25 years. She was interred in Christ Churchyard, New Brunswick.

Robert's second wife was Mary Lawrence, daughter of John Lawrence, Esq., of Burlington, N. J., and a sister of Capt. James Lawrence, the heroic commander of the United States frigate "Chesapeake" which was captured by the British frigate "Shannon," Captain Phillip Bowes Vere Broke, off Boston Harbour, June 1st, 1813, when Capt. Lawrence was mortally wounded and carried a prisoner to Halifax, N. S., where he died. Mary Lawrence was born at Burlington, N. J., in 1777, and died at New Brunswick, N. J., Feb. 12th, 1815. She was married to Robert Boggs, August 7th, 1802.

Robert's third wife was Maria Eliza (Brenton) Stewart, widow of Leslie Stewart, of Halifax, N. S. She was a daughter of Judge James Brenton, of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia. Maria Brenton was born at Halifax, N. S., Dec. 26th, 1784, and died at New Brunswick, N. J., March 26th, 1864. She was married on June 17th, 1817, at St. John's Church, New York, by Bishop Hobart, to Robert Boggs. Her will, dated Dec. 2nd, 1848, indicates that her residence at that time was at Swedesboro, Gloucester County, N. J. She spent some time in France and England during the period of the education of her son Edward Brenton Boggs in those lands.

Robert and Mary (Morris) Boggs had issue:—

4. JAMES BOGGS,³ (*James*², *Ezekiel*¹). James Boggs was born at Shrewsbury, N. J., April 5th, 1769, at 7 a. m. Entry in the Baptismal Register of Christ Church, Shrewsbury, May 7th, 1769. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Cooke, and the sponsors were Capt. Kearny, Capt. Morris, and Mrs. Isabel McKean. James died at his residence, 113 Chambers St., New York City, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 4th, 1834. James and his elder brother Robert did not go to Nova Scotia with the rest of the family in 1784, but remained in the United States. James became a merchant, and in 1791 we find him in Philadelphia, in partnership with Charles Risk, who had married his Aunt Rebecca Boggs. In 1795 and 1796 he was associated with Alexander Henry in the firm of Henry & Boggs, 42 South Front St., Philadelphia. Mr. Henry "was a prominent man in the importation of Irish linens and other British dry goods, and an eminent man in hospitals, charities and benevolences." In 1808 he became one of the partners of the house of Boggs & Livingston, of New York, which was established at that time. His partner was Col. John W. Livingston, who married Caroline, the second daughter of John Broome, of New York, the younger sister of Sarah Lloyd Broome who married James Boggs. Col. Livingston later retired from the partnership, removed to the west, and became United States Marshal of the western part of the State. The daughter of Col. Livingston married Joseph Sampson, who later became associated with Mr. Boggs in business. In 1815 the house of Boggs & Livingston had become Boggs & Thompson, and in 1830 it was Boggs, Sampson & Thompson, auctioneers. James Boggs was one of "the old merchants of New York." In 1812 the New York Manufacturing Company Bank was established with a capital of $1,050,000. In 1815 James Boggs became its President, in which office he continued until 1834. It was afterwards called the Phoenix Bank of New York City.

In 1795 Mr. Boggs was one of those who signed the Merchants and Traders Address to the President at Washington, concerning the Treaty with Great Britain. In 1796 he was elected a member of the Hibernian Society of Philadelphia and on March 17th was elected to membership on the Acting Committee of that Society.

Mr. Boggs was also interested in military affairs and in 1794 became a member of the "Volunteer Greens," or 3rd Troop of Philadelphia Light Horse, a cavalry corps composed of Federalists, under the command of Capt. Morell. In the autumn of that year Mr. Boggs served with the troop in an expedition to Pittsburg for the suppression of the "Whisky Insurrection." A reign of terror had occurred in Western Pennsylvania and the authority of the general government was set at defiance. To restore order it became necessary to call out the troops and Washington moved the Governor of the State to action. A letter from his uncle Judge Robert Morris, dated October 1794, to James Boggs, who was at the time in camp Carlisle, with the militia, in which he gives his nephew sound advice as to his manner of life in camp, is still extant, and is in the possession of Mr. J. Lawrence Boggs, of Newark. James Boggs was a keen and prosperous business man and for his day was very wealthy. At his decease his personal property was reckoned to amount to more than $200,000. He lived for many years at 113 Chambers St., New York City, where every appointment was most luxurious and he dispensed a grand hospitality. It was here that his daughter Mary Rebecca was married. He also owned another home at Bloomingdale, known as "Chevilly," formerly the residence of Lieut. Governor Broome, his father-in-law. This residence was of considerable historic interest. It was built by Mme. d'Auliffe, maid-of-honor to Marie Antoinette. She fled from France to escape the horrors of the French Revolution, and erected this residence for herself. It lay to the west of Broadway between 72nd and 73rd streets. The famous Talleyrand and General Moreau had been guests at this house.

James Boggs married, April 29th, 1806, Sarah Lloyd Broome, eldest daughter of John Broome, Esq., and Rebecca (Lloyd) Broome of Lloyd's Neck, Long Island. Mr. Broome was a merchant of New York City, and one of her distinguished citizens. He was Lieut. Col. of the 2nd New Yorks in the War of the Revolution; the first alderman of New York City, 1783-6; Treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce, 1785-1794; in 1801 elected to the Assembly of New York State; and in 1804 became Lieut-Governor of

New York. He was the son of John Broome and Marie, daughter of Count de la Tourette. He died August 8th, 1810, aged 72 years. Sarah Lloyd Broome was born April 20th, 1775 and died August 18th, 1849. Her marriage with James Boggs was performed by Dr. Rodgers, that of her sister Caroline with Col. John W. Livingston, by Dr. McKnight. In the years 1794-1798 and again in 1802 yellow fever was very prevalent in Philadelphia, and we find a letter written in 1802 by Dr. James Boggs to his son Robert, speaking of his anxiety concerning his son James in Philadelphia, and expressing his satisfaction at knowing that James had promised to remove "his store to Germantown." James was recovering from some illness and severe trouble with his eyes and was "to go to Yellow Springs to drink the waters." In 1820 James and his son visited his parents and other relatives at Halifax, N. S., which fact is referred to in a letter from his mother to her son Robert, Nov. 24th, 1820.

James and Sarah Lloyd (Broome) Boggs had issue:—

Three children who died in infancy and concerning whom no definite record seems to have been preserved.

MARY REBECCA, b. Sept. 14th, 1808, at 20 Pine Street, New York; d. in Florence, Italy, Jan. 1st, 1878. She was buried in Paris. A tablet to her memory was placed in the English Church, Rue d'Aguesseau, Faubourg St. Honore, near the English Embassy, Paris. Mary Rebecca was married at her father's residence, 113 Chambers Street, New York, on _____ to Richard Ray, a merchant of New York. He was born at _____ on _____ and died at _____ March 21st, 1836. In 1835 he made a visit to France. Their only child was Mary (Birdie) Ray. She had, "while travelling with her parents in the Holy Land, met Arthur, Constant du Bois, Viscount de Courval, of Paris, who, fascinated with her charms, married her." She died, a widow, in Paris, July 5th, 1902, and was buried at Pinon, Aisne. Her only child, Marie Madelaine Isabella de Courval, married the Prince de Poix, and she is living with her three children, two sons and a daughter, at 6 Rue Paul, Baudry, Paris. Her country residence is Mouchy, T. Heilles-Mouchy Noailles, Oise. Her husband died previous to 1902, of typhoid fever. Owing to the death of his father, the Duc de Mouchy, about 1908, the eldest son of the Princess de Poix succeeded to the title, Duc de Mouchy. The Princess de Poix devotes much time and sympathetic interest to philanthropic effort and is well known in Paris for what she does to relieve those in need. She has been particularly active during the great war now (1916) in progress, in directing and co-operating with others in providing comforts for the families of the soldiers at the front and those of such as have given their lives for their country.

The Genealogy of

The following item of interest in connection with this family, appeared in "The Madras Mail" of May 15th, 1909:—"In connection with the beatification of Joan of Arc, it is interesting to learn that her armour is still in existence, and can be seen in the museum of the Chateau de la Tour de Pinon, in Aisne, France. It is said that there is no doubt as to its authenticity. The museum was founded in 1830, by the Marquis de Courval, and the Chateau is today the property of his daughter, the Princess of Poix. The armour, which was believed to have been lost, was found about twelve years ago. The cuirass differs from similar pieces of the same period, and indicates that it was made for a woman. The other portions (all are polished steel) resemble those of the Middle Ages which are shown in the works of Eugene Emmanuel Viollet-le-Duc, the celebrated architect and archaeologist."

JOHN,⁴ b. Sept. 24th, 1810; d. Oct. 24th, 1833.

JAMES SAMUEL,⁴ b. Sept. 22nd, 1813; d. Sept. 8th, 1829.

On March 9th, 1830, the father, James, writing to his brother Robert, speaks of the very unsatisfactory condition of his son's health, who would finish his studies in College in June, and whom he was taking from school, for a health trip to France and Italy, which he hoped might restore the boy to health again. On June 26th, 1830, James wrote again to Robert, from Paris, mentioning "Mrs. B., Mary, and the boys."

On June 28th, 1830, Richard Tremaine, writing from Halifax, N. S., to Robert Boggs at New Brunswick, N. J., says "I was grieved indeed to hear of Brother James loss of his son James and again to hear the ill state of poor John who, I very much fear, will never make a healthy man if he should survive his present indisposition." The two boys, John and James, attended Columbia College, but neither of them was able to complete the course. From the above letter it would appear that John was able to almost finish when he was compelled by ill health to give up.

From the letter referred to above from James from Paris, written after the death of his son James, in which he mentions "the boys," one would conclude that there must have been another son other than John, living at that time, unless, as is quite possible, a friend and companion of John had been induced to form one of the party to visit Europe, in which case the reference to "the boys" is explained.

JULIA AUGUSTA,⁴ b. at 113 Chambers Street, New York, Nov. 16th, 1817; d. at "Grasmere," Rhinebeck, N. Y., Nov. th, 1885. She married 1843, Lewis

Howard Livingston, of New York. He was the son of Maturin Livingston and Margaret, only daughter of Gertrude Morgan (Lewis) Livingston, of Clermont, N. Y. She was the daughter of General Morgan Lewis. Mr. Livingston inherited from his uncle, Peter R. Livingston, "Grasmere," an estate of 1,000 acres near Rhinebeck, N. Y., and removed there in 1849. Here Mr. Livingston died April 14th, 1886, aged 72 years, from organic disease of the heart after an illness of two months. He was one of the incorporators of the Rhinebeck Savings Bank, and its first President. He was "a member of the Church of the Messiah in Rhinebeck, and widely esteemed for his benevolence and other qualities of mind and heart."

He was educated, as was his brother Charles Stuart Boggs, at Capt. Partridge's Military School, at Middletown, Conn. He was employed for a number of years in the Phoenix Bank of New York. On Sept. 1st, 1842, he became a clerk in the Navy Department, and later miscellaneous clerk in the office of the Secretary of the Navy. In 1844 he became recording clerk in the same office. On Nov. 30th, 1852, he became Purser; March 3rd, 1871, Pay-Director; retired July 2nd, 1871. From 1852 to 1856 he was in the sloop-of-war "Vincennes," the flagship of Commander Cadwallader Ringold, attached to an expedition surveying the China Sea, Behring Straits, and the Siberian Coast of the Arctic Ocean. In 1856 he was ordered to Washington. In 1864 he was very severely burned while attempting to rescue the official books and papers from the burning S. S. "Mound City" and he carried the scars which greatly disfigured his appearance until his death. "Of a genial, kindly disposition, and a general favorite. Was known as one of the finest amateur artists in the United States."

He married October 13th, 1842, Eleanor Carter, daughter of Charles Beale Carter and Anne (Stuart) Carter, of "Sabine Hall," Virginia. Eleanor Carter was born October 22nd, 1820 and died August 5th, 1896.

He retired Jan. 28th, 1872. He "was of the bulldog class of seamen," bold, courageous, determined, indomitable. He saw much service in the Mediterranean; during the Mexican War was present at the Siege of Vera Cruz; and distinguished himself throughout the Civil War. At the passage of Forts St. Philip and Jackson, at New Orleans, he was in command of the "Varuna," attached to the Union Squadron under Admiral Farragut. The "Varuna" was the only vessel of the squadron lost in the engagement. Farragut's official report of the incident reads:—"We were now fairly past the forts and the victory was ours, but still here and there a gunboat making resistance. Two of them had attacked the 'Varuna' which vessel, by her greater speed was much in advance of us. They ran into her and caused her to sink but not before she had destroyed her adversaries; and their wrecks now lie side by side, a monument to the gallantry of Capt. Boggs, his officers and crew." To mark their appreciation of the service which Charles Stuart Boggs had rendered to his country, the citizens of New Brunswick presented him with a sword, as did also the State of New Jersey.

Charles Stuart Boggs married twice. First, Dec. 4th, 1834, by Right Reverend Henry M. CHAPTER IV.

The Nova Scotia Branch of the Boggs Family.

It has already been stated that at the close of the War of Independence, it became necessary for Dr. James Boggs to remove from the United States, and that he, as one of the United Empire Loyalists, found his way to Nova Scotia. He was followed thither by his family, but his two eldest sons, Robert and James remained in the United States. On this account we find the descendants of Dr. Boggs divided into two groups, which we have styled "The American Branch," and "The Nova Scotia Branch." The descendants of Robert and James, constituting The American Branch, we have been considering on pages 20 to 39. The others will form the subject of the pages following.

25. THOMAS BOGGS.³ (*James,*² *Ezekiel*¹). Thomas Boggs was born in Shrewsbury, N. J., at 12.30 A. M., May 22nd, 1771 and died in Halifax, N. S., October 24th, 1859, aged 89 years. An entry in the Baptismal

Register of Christ's Church, Shrewsbury, is dated Aug. 10th, 1771, and indicates that the ceremony was performed by Rev. William Cooke, and that the sponsors were Capt. Vincent Pierse Ashfield, Mrs. Redfern Ashfield and Mr. Ashfield, jr.

Thomas Boggs was a merchant of Halifax, of the firm of Boggs & Hartshorne, hardware merchants, of George and Granville Streets.

Mr. Boggs was married, according to the record in Murdock's History of Nova Scotia, on Friday evening, Sept. 5th, 1800, by Rev. Robert Stanser, who became (1816) Bishop of Nova Scotia, to Sarah DeBlois, the second daughter and fourth child of George DeBlois, Esq., merchant of Halifax, N. S., and Sarah DeBlois. The grandfather of George DeBlois, Louis DeBlois, left France and came to England, in 1688, after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, and settled probably in Shropshire. He was with the forces of William III, at the Battle of the Boyne, in 1690. His son removed with his family to America and settled in Boston, Mass., but when the American Revolution broke out, he, with part of his family, came to Halifax, N. S. The family was of Huguenot origin. George DeBlois died in Newport, R. I., June 18th, 1799, and his wife Sarah, at Halifax, Dec. 25th, 1827.

Sarah DeBlois Boggs was born in Salem, Mass., August 18th, 1774, and died in Halifax, Feb. 2nd, 1833 aged 58 years. A letter dated New York, Feb. 14th, 1833, from James Boggs jr., to J. S. Blauvelt, says "I have a letter from Halifax this morning, of the 2nd inst., but it is not from one of the immediate family and it communicates ill tidings. My poor brother Thomas has lost his wife, and very suddenly and unexpectedly, though her general health was not good. The letter is from Mr. Stephen DeBlois; my Brother and Mrs. B. had dined with him on the 1st of the month (the preceding day) by themselves, and returned home about 10 o'clock—Mrs. B. in good spirits. She was attacked that night with violent spasms—and died between two and three in the morning of the 2nd. Mr. DeBlois says Miss Boggs (meaning I presume my sister) behaved exceedingly well and seemed the comfort and support of all; and that my poor brother bears it as a Christian man ought. She was a most excellent woman, wife, and mother—and I feel most sensibly the loss of my bereaved Brother and the children." She was buried in the Pleasant Street (Old St. Paul's) Cemetery.

Thomas and Sarah (DeBlois) Boggs had issue:—

His business career was somewhat varied. In 1798 he was engaged in a grocery business with his brother-in-law, Richard Tremaine, under the name, Tremaine & Boggs. For a time he was a brewer in Halifax. In June 1822, he removed to "Brooklands," Nine Mile River, Hants County, N. S. He had purchased this farm and erected buildings. In his ambition to stock the new farm, Charles wrote to his brother Robert, asking him to send him a well bred ram, ewe and a sow with young pigs. These arrived in due time and gave great satisfaction when inspected in Halifax. Soon after their arrival they were loaded on a wagon for transportation to "Brooklands." The ram was tied with a rope and while the driver, one of Charles' sons was busy hither and thither, completing his arrangements for the journey, the ram became restless and jumped out of the wagon. The rope was too short to allow of the ram touching the ground and before the driver returned it had succeeded in hanging itself and was dead. In one of Charles' letters he wrote that he found horses to be "a great moth, eating up everything" so he invested in a pair of oxen, as mules were not readily attainable. Charles seems to have been of a rather changeable nature for we find him, after a period spent in farming, dropping that and removing to Clementsport, Annapolis County, N. S., where he was Manager of Iron Works. Later he returned to Halifax, where he spent the remainder of his life and where he died.

Murdock's History of Nova Scotia, Vol. III, p. 197, tells us that Charles was married, Saturday morning, Sept. 6th, 1800, at Fort Clarence, Dartmouth, N. S., to Mary Fraser, daughter of Dr. John Fraser, of the Royal Nova Scotia Regiment, a regiment raised by Edward, Duke of Kent, when Commander-in-Chief in Halifax. At the time of his marriage Charles was a merchant in Halifax.

Mary Fraser, was born in Scotland, 1776, and died at Nine Mile River, "Brooklands," Douglas, August 31st, 1838, in her 62nd year. She was buried at Nine Mile River. Charles was buried in Camp Hill Cemetery, Halifax.

"In Zululand, the 24th Foot, now the South Wales Borderers, was almost annihilated at Isandhlwana, and, when the Zulus were closing around the doomed regiment, Lieutenants Melville and Coghill were ordered to try to get away with the colors. They were pursued by the Zulus and were afterwards found dead near a large boulder, where they had made their last stand. The Queen's color was found on the rocky bed of an adjoining river, and when it was brought to England and presented to Queen Victoria, Her Majesty tied a wreath of immortelles to the staff-head in memory of the two gallant officers." 35. WILLIAM FRASER BOGGS.⁴ (Charles,³ James,³ Ezekiel¹). William Fraser Boggs was born at Halifax, N. S., Jan. 17th, 1813, and died at the residence of his son Thomas, at Kentville, N. S., Dec. 29th, 1898, aged 86 years. Baptismal Register of St. Paul's Church, Halifax, April 13th, 1813. He was a farmer for years at Nine Mile River, Hants County, N. S., and at Fort Ellis, Lower Stewiacke, N. S. From the year 1870 he and his wife made their home with one or other of their sons for the most of the time until their deaths.

William Fraser was married, May 1st, 1838, at the Rawdon Church, Hants County, N. S., by Rev. Mr. Morris, to Jessie W. Clow. She was born Jan. 8th, 1813, at Jillingham, near Dartford, Kent, England, and died at Kentville, at her son's residence, March 6th, 1899, aged 86 years. She was the daughter of David Clow, Paymaster in a ship of H. M. Navy, attached to Nelson's fleet. He was present at the battles of The Nile, Copenhagen, Trafalgar. When his ship was posted to the North American Station, David Clow came with the ship to Halifax. He became interested in Nova Scotia, and on his retirement from the service, he came with part of his family, to Nova Scotia, and settled at "Woodside," near Nine Mile River, Hants County, and near the farm "Brookland," which Charles Boggs (page 43) had purchased and where he resided with his family. Thus the acquaintance was made possible which resulted in the marriage of Jessie Clow and William Fraser Boggs. After a few years Mr. Clow returned to England, and lived at Plymouth, where his daughter, Jessie, visited him in 1863.

William Fraser Boggs retained the use of his faculties, but little impaired, until his death, and his physical powers were remarkably good.

Jessie (Clow) Boggs was exceedingly small of stature but of keen intellect. Many of her poems found place in the press of Nova Scotia and were of no little excellence. She was a woman of most estimable character, pious, devoted. Her intense interest in missions was largely responsible for the devoting of his life to foreign missions, of her second son William. Possessed of a wonderful memory and a keen interest in poetry, in her earlier years she committed a great deal of what she read to memory. During the last few years of her life her memory had entirely failed so that at times she did not even recognize the members of the household in which she was living. Yet so wonderful is memory and so lasting the impressions of early days, that a few days before her death when she knew little of what was going on about her, and her strength had so far gone that she was unable to speak so as to be heard at any distance, her niece who was waiting upon her, saw her lips moving and bent over to hear what she was saying, to find that she was repeating poetry that she had learned in her girlhood days.

William Fraser and Jessie (Clow) Boggs had issue:—

In 1883 he was British Vice-Consul at Newport News, U. S. A., and also Vice-Consul for Sweden and Norway in 1884. In later years he was in the employ of the Union Bank of Halifax, in its New Glasgow Branch, and his residence was New Glasgow, N. S., where he died Oct. 12th, 1915.

The Acadian Recorder, Oct. 14th, 1915, said "The death occurred at New Glasgow, Tuesday, of Mr. C. D. Boggs, brother-in-law of Mr. M. E. Keefe. 43. WILLIAM BAMBRICK BOGGS.⁵ (*William Fraser,*⁴ *Charles,*³ *James,*² *Ezekiel*¹). William Bambrick Boggs was born on his father's farm on the west side of the Shubenacadie River, about 3 miles below Shubenacadie Village, Halifax County, N. S., May 8th, 1842. When he was almost two years old his parents removed to Fort Ellis, on the east side of the Stuben-acadie River, and it was here that his childhood and youth were spent. During the winter of 1853 he spent 3 months at the Colchester Academy, Truro, N. S. during the Principalship of Mr. Edward Blanchard. He was brought up in the Church of England, the church home of all the family of Dr. James Boggs. In 1858 there came to his neighborhood, a young Baptist minister, Theodore Harding Porter, and during revival services which he conducted, young Boggs was converted. A friendship between the two then began that lasted through life. As a result of those meetings, William B. Boggs and his parents were constrained to sever their connection with the Church of England and unite with the Baptist Church. William was baptized, Feb. 14th, 1858, by Rev. T. H. Porter, sr., father of the young minister, at Hills Bridge, in the Stewiacke River. On Jan. 1st, 1860, he left home for Horton Academy, Wolfville, N. S., which he entered during the Principalship of Jarvis W. Hartt, Esq. His teachers were Rev. Thos. A. Higgins, T. H. Rand and Brenton H. Eaton. In addition to his regular Academy studies he attended weekly Theological lectures by Rev. J. M. Cramp, D. D., President of Acadia College, and joined Dr. Cramp's class in New Testament Greek. This would indicate that from the first William had it in mind to become a minister. On May 31st, 1862, he was licensed as a minister, by the First Horton Baptist Church at Wolfville. On June 6th, 1865, he graduated, B. A., from Acadia College, his graduating oration being "The Consecration," a treatise on Foreign Missions, to which he had hoped to devote his life, but which he was compelled to abandon temporarily on account of ill health. He was called to the pastorate of the Baptist Church at Sydney, Cape Breton, where he was ordained, Sept. 24th, 1865. Leaving Sydney, in 1870, he was for four months the supply pastor of the Granville St. Baptist Church, Halifax, during the absence of Rev. E. M. Saunders. At the close of this period he undertook city mission work in Halifax, but in Feb. 1871 he entered on the pastorate of the Portland Baptist Church, now the Main St. Baptist Church, St. John, New Brunswick. He resigned this pastorate in April 1874, to become a missionary of the Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of the Maritime Provinces of Canada. Sailing from St. John, August 27th, 1874, by the Anchor Line S. S. "Si-donian," for Liverpool, and thence to the far East, he arrived at his destination, Bangkok, Siam, in December. In company with a fellow missionary, Rev. George Churchill, he made a tour of missionary exploration up the Menam River, having arranged with other two fellow missionaries, Rev. R. Sanford, and Rev. W. F. Armstrong, to meet them in upper Siam, after they had crossed over by elephant from Burma, and they were there to advise together as to the feasibility of establishing a mission to the Karens whom they hoped to find in those regions, having been drawn to that people by the marvelous success of the mission to the Karens, carried on by the American Baptist Missionary Union. The result of this tour having proved unfavorable, the missionary party which intended to locate in Siam, was transferred to the Telugu Country in South India, and they arrived in Cocanada in 1875. Compelled by failing health to leave India, Mr. Boggs returned to Nova Scotia in 1876, taking up the work of the pastorate in the church at Sydney, where he had gone eleven years before. In 1878 he was again constrained to offer himself for service in the Telugu Mission but the Board under which he had formerly served, hesitated to run the risk of another physical breakdown. Applying to the American Baptist Missionary Union he was accepted and sailed from Halifax, Nov. 1878. Arriving in India, he came to Ongole where he studied the language and gained an insight into the work of the Mission. In 1881 he was asked to assume the Presidency of the Theological Seminary, at Ramapatnam, during the absence of Rev. R. R. Williams. He opened a new mission station at Cumbum (1883), taking over a section of the Ongole field. For several years from 1887 he was President of the Theological Seminary. After returning from furlough in America, in 1895 he was located at Secunderabad. Later he returned to Ramapatnam and became Vice-President of the Seminary, associated with Rev. J. Hejnrichs, President. In 1907 he was compelled to leave India because of broken health. For a time he was Dean of the Gordon Training School, Boston, but failing health compelled him after a time to relinquish this much loved work. In 1912 his health had so far recovered as to warrant him in asking to be returned to India to carry on literary work on the Hills. He arrived in November 1912, and after a few weeks, located at Coonor and began his literary work in the Telugu language, of which he had an excellent command.

But after a very determined effort to carry on his work he was compelled to lay it down. After a continuous struggle of nearly seven years with disease and consequent weakness, he passed away at his residence, "Melrose," Coonoor, July 25th, 1913 in his 72nd year, loved and missed by all who knew him. He was buried at the Tiger Hill Cemetery, Coonoor, and his tombstone bears the simple inscription which he asked for, "Till He Come."

Mr. Boggs was graduated from Acadia College, with the degree of B. A., in 1865. That institution honored him with M. A., in 1874, and D. D., in 1895. William Jewell College conferred the degree of D. D., on him in 1889.

With his excellent knowledge of the Telugu language and the needs of the Telugu students for the ministry, and from a mind well equipped and a heart abounding in love for the people of his adopted land he produced several books which are now in use. His book on "The Christian Ministry," and that on "The History of the Christian Church" are textbooks widely used not only by the men of the mission for which he prepared them but by many others also. He also prepared a small handbook, "The Baptists: Who They are, and What Do They Believe," setting forth the tenets of the Baptist denomination. This had a rather extensive circulation in the United States and Canada and more than one edition was called for. He also wrote a "Religious History of Acadia College."

The Watchman, Boston, August 7th, 1913, in a sketch of his life said "The character of Dr. Boggs exhibited a remarkable union of intelligent firmness, gentleness and sweetness. He held his own view stoutly, and often differed from others, but never in a way that left a sting of personal resentment. As a preacher he was scriptural, persuasive and uplifting; as a teacher clear, careful, definite, and thorough; as a pastor active, industrious and winning. Deeply spiritual, entirely sincere and transparent, he won friends from all sorts and conditions of men and bound them to him with hooks of steel. When he went to India last year it was with buoyant hopes of a few more years of service for the Master, and with ringing words of cheer. But the friends who loved him most were 'sorrowing most of all that they should see his face no more.' Even so they will not on this earth, but in the brighter world where he now beholds with exceeding joy the face of the Lord whom he loved and served, we shall see him, and with him, looking upon the Lord, 'We shall be like Him for we shall see Him as He is.' "

William Bambrick Boggs was married twice. First, at Greenwich, Kings County, N. S., at "Thornhill," the home of Edward R. Bishop, the father of his bride, on August 14th, 1866, by Rev. S. B. Kempton, of New Minas, to Mary Ann Bishop. (For the Bishop connection see Appendix). Mary Bishop was born at "Thornhill," Feb. 19th, 1846, and died at Tower Road, Halifax, N. S., Dec. 20th, 1870. The story of their leaving Ireland is on this wise:—The land on which the family lived in Ireland was the property of a London Corporation, whose agent was visiting Drumnaha. He was invited to dine at the Allison home, and in their effort to honor their guest, they brought out their silver spoons. The agent remarked that if they were able to afford silver spoons, they were also able to pay more rent. On the agent's return to London, the rent was increased, but Joseph refused to pay it and chose rather to emigrate. The historic spoons were still in the possession of the family in 1893.

THE BISHOP FAMILY

1. ELEASAR BISHOP,¹ He was born in Jersey, or Guernsey, of the Channel Islands, about 1683, and died in New London, Connecticut, September 3rd, 1755. He came to New London in 1692, probably kidnapped by the skipper of an American bound British vessel. The story goes that this vessel was lying in port somewhere in one of those islands, and the skipper saw a small boy playing near with a large and handsome dog. The dog captured the heart of the skipper who gave orders to his men to seize the dog. If it was possible to do so without taking the boy, alright. If not the dog was to come under any circumstances. As it was not possible to separate the two friends, the boy was brought along too. Before the ship reached New London, the dog's affections were so far won that he could be retained, but the boy was considered unnecessary and when the ship arrived in port an effort was made to dispose of him. Another version of the story is that Eleasar came to New London as a stow-away on a British ship. He had two companions Deshon and John Sharpe, who also came as stow-aways to New London.

A tailor of New London, Richard Dart, hearing of the boy, agreed to take him and re-imbursed the captain for his food on the voyage by giving him a yoke of oxen. The boy became a member of the family of Richard Dart and when he became of age he married Sarah Dart, daughter of Richard, June 22nd, 1704. Sarah was born June 10th, 1681.

Eleasar Bishop's son

2. JOHN BISHOP,² was born in New London, Conn. in 1709 and died at Greenwich, Kings County, Nova Scotia, October 28th, 1785. He married first, May 20th, 1731, Rebecca Whipple, who died Oct. 17th, 1751. He married second, Hannah (Allen) Cornstock, who was born in 1712.

In 1760 or 1763, John Bishop came with his four sons, Colonel John, Captain William, Peter, and Timothy, to Horton, N. S., where they were among the original grantees of Horton Township. They occupied lands made vacant by the expulsion of the Acadians in 1755, and were members of a large company of settlers from Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, who came in response to an offer from the Government of Nova Scotia, to all who would immigrate and take up land. John Bishop's grant was at Greenwich, King's County, N. S., where he built a house and settled. The cellars of several Acadian houses on this property, which had been vacated in 1755 were still to be seen in recent years, as also apple trees planted by the Acadians and dykes which they had raised to keep out the tide. This property has continued in the possession of John Bishop's descendants until the present time and is now occupied by his great-great-grandson, Hazen Bishop.

Anna Lewis' mother was descended from Thomas Olney, who was associated with Roger Williams, and with him and several others was excluded from the Colony of Massachusetts, March 12th, 1638, for peculiar religious views. He was one of the "Original Thirteen Proprietors of Providence," who purchased the site of the present City of Providence, R. I., from the Narragansett Indians. There they laid the foundation of that city and called it "Providence" in grateful remembrance of deliverance from those who had embittered their lives and striven to deprive them of religious freedom. THE RITCHIE FAMILY

1. JOHN RITCHIE¹ was born, perhaps in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1745. His father was probably Thomas Ritchie, and was an elder brother of Andrew. He came to America in the ship "Glasco," Capt. John Dunn, Oct. 21st, 1770, and from Boston, Mass., to Annapolis, N. S., not later than 1775. He lived in the home of his uncle Andrew Ritchie at Annapolis. On attaining his majority he went into partnership with his uncle in business. He married first, in

1770, in Edinboro, Janet . . . His second wife, whom he married at Annapolis, N. S., about 1776, was Alicia Maria, daughter of Francis B. LeQuesne, or LeCain. John Ritchie's son,

2. JOHN CORBETT RITCHIE,² was born July 11th, 1775, and died at Sydney, Cape Breton, July 16th, 1860, aged 85 years. "A young man of fine appearance, he attracted the attention of the Duke of Kent, Commander-in-Chief in Halifax, who induced him to accept a commission in the Royal Nova Scotia Regiment, raised in 1793." In 1796 he was junior lieutenant. The regiment was disbanded in 1802, when young Ritchie went to Sydney, Cape Breton, where he became Manager of coal mines. He married first, at Halifax, Aug. 18th, 1800, Alexis, daughter of Colonel Campbell of the 21st Regiment. He married second, at Sydney, Amelia, daughter of Hon. David Matthews, a Loyalist, and Attorney General of Cape Breton. John Corbett Ritchie's daughter,
3. HARRIET DESPARD RITCHIE,³ was born Oct. 2nd, 1801, and died at Windsor, N. S., at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Leonard Allison (See page 52.), Dec. 31st, 1886. In her younger days Harriet Despard Ritchie lived with her uncle Thomas Ritchie, at "The Grange," Annapolis, N. S. She was married at Halifax, N. S., April 3rd, 1832, by Rev. Dr. Willis, to Charles Boggs,⁴ (Charles,⁵ James,² Ezekiel¹), of Halifax. See page 52.

THE TREMAINE FAMILY

1. JONATHAN TREMAINE¹ was born at Portsea, England, April 24th, 1742, and died in Nova Scotia, probably at Dartmouth, May 7th, 1823. He married at New York, Feb. 18th, 1770, Abigail Stout, who was born in New York, March 24th, 1754, and died in Dartmouth, April 6th, 1822. Both husband and wife were buried in Dartmouth. They were members of the Anglican Church. Jonathan Tremaine and his brother Richard were born at Portsea and educated at Maidstone, Kent. They came to New York City in 1764, where Jonathan established himself in business and accumulated a large and valuable property. At the close of the American Revolution, probably in 1783, being a Loyalist, he removed to Quebec, where he remained until 1786, when he came with his family to Halifax and established himself in business in that city. His ventures proved very successful and he accumulated considerable property in Halifax and Dartmouth. He erected Tremaine's wharf. In Dartmouth he had a "country seat." He owned and operated flour mills. After Mr. Tremaine's death his sons continued the business. Jonathan Tremaine had thirteen children, seven born in New York, one in Quebec, three in Halifax, and two in Dartmouth.
Jonathan's son
2. RICHARD TREMAINE² was born June 20th, 1774, at New York, and died suddenly at Halifax, Aug. 30th, 1854. He was married by Rev. Mr. Stanzer of Halifax, May 13th, 1801, to Mary Boggs (James,² Ezekiel¹) of Halifax. See page 17. He was a prominent merchant of Halifax, a justice of the peace, and Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce.

Copy of Letter written by
to his wife
MARY MORRIS BOGGS.

(This letter, the original of which is in the possession of one of the descendants of Dr. Boggs, at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, was written by Dr. Boggs, after he had gone to Nova Scotia, at the close of the American Revolution, and was stationed as medical officer with a detachment of troops, at Port Matoun, near Liverpool, N. S. His wife and family were still in New Jersey awaiting an opportunity to follow the husband and father to their new home in Nova Scotia).

Port Matoun, 3rd March, 1784.

Some persons who have just come from Shelburne or Port Roseway, through the country, bring accounts of a schooner being arrived there from New York, tho she left it a long time ago and has been in some of the New England ports—she belongs to persons here & the owner sets out very early tomorrow morning to bring her round to this place. The vessel left this place some about the middle of Nov. last & by her I wrote my first letter to my dearest Molly from this place, & by her I flatter myself with the happiness of hearing from you & my ever dear children tho it must be of an old date—for—judge how very great my impatience must be, as the date of the last most welcome favour from you was the 13 Nov. which came by the Fleet & have not recd. a line since. About the 10th Jany. last an oppy. presented to Halifax & another to Port Roseway, by each of which I wrote my love very particularly, but am doubtful whether either may have yet gone. Tho. L. Hartshorne of Halifax and W. Brewer at Port Roseway have both assured me they would send my letters as soon as possible—I am happy to tell you that I am in perfect health & have not had an Hours sickness since our most painful parting—may I be so happy as to hear you have all been as much so. Your fears and apprehensions of what I might suffer in this so much dreaded climate, I thank God are entirely groundless for it is universally acknowledged here that we never knew so mild and favorable a winter. The whole month of December was very moderate. The whole month of January was also exceedingly mild, except the 11th & 12th which were very cold, and on one of these days we had Snow 4 inches deep, the only one in the month—the month of February was moderate except from the 9th to the 16th & from the 27th to the 2nd Inst: These Periods were very cold, but not more so than I have experienced often in New York. There was one Snow on the 12th of three Inches deep, and another of four Inches on the 23th.—I never have been prevented by the cold from any Patients, or taking a Dinner with any of my Friends & last Sunday which was one of our severest days, Mrs. Cudler & Mrs. Stewart walk'd near a mile to Col. Molleson's where we had a very handsome dinner. So much for an account of the Climate here which you may depend upon as strictly true—but from some flying rumours here; am afraid your weather-wise people's Prognostics have proved too true, as tis said here that the winter has been much severer than that of four years ago & that wood has been 5&6 Guineas a Cord—This report makes me uneasy least my dearest Family May have suffered, as your Rooms are none of the warmest, but then on the other hand I will not suppose your worthy good old Friends & mine will let you want any comforts that you may stand in need of—My habitation is small for so large a Family but yet so comfortable that it is my most earnest wish that you all were at this moment with me for altho' we might be a little crowded, our Hearts would be at Ease & I flatter myself our Anxieties would be well over—In my last I urged your holding yourself in readiness the beginning of April for any good oppority. that may present & mentioned that Col. Molleson, intended to be at N. York about the middle of April—he is returned from Halifax & still means to persue his plan of going from hence to Boston & from Thence here as he will bring Horses with him—he will be of any Use to you he can—But how the important business of my Family's coming to me, is to be accomplished I am yet totally at Loss & as I can find out no method from this side, am afraid it must altogether depend upon the exertions of yourself and friends in New York.—at present I can think of no way so probable as getting Robt. Bowne, Mr. Polock, or some such Friends or rather your good Brother interesting himself, or some of his Friends to find out what Vessels are coming to Port Roseway or Halifax This Spring, for I think undoubtedly there will be several & to hire a good Cabin, sufficient to accommodate the Family in a good safe Vessel of not less than 80 or 100 Tons Burthen, with proper Berths fitted up & Conveniences & Room enough reserved in the Hold for whatever you bring with you—This will be expensive, but must be submitted to & the sooner the Enquiry about the Vessel is made the better—If you can get one to Port Roseway or Liverpool it will best suit, if not, to Halifax at either of which Places I will take care that you have friends to pay you every attention & Civility—If I can learn that you are bound to Roseway, shall endeavour to meet my dearest Friend there—As the Weather is fine & moderate on this Coast from the middle of April I would urge your embarking if you can between that time & the middle of May—your old acquaintance Mr. Tom Ludlow has been at Liverpool all winter, 12 miles from here but we have not met—several Messages have passed between us & lately he sent me word that he should pretty soon go to York & Convey any letters &c, &c—upon which I wrote him expressing a great desire to see him & an invitation to spend a few days with me—I recently received a friendly letter from him with an assurance that he will not leave the Province without calling on me & by him I shall write & say everything very particular & send by him or Col. Molleson abot. 20 guineas, by which you may suppose I have received my Pay from Halifax—in my last I desired you might bring with you some good well seasoned Boards either 2 or 3000 feet, as your Finances may admit, also 2000 Bricks ; 1 Hhd. at least of good Lime, these are indispensable in Nova Scotia & not to be had—also Hams & smok'd Beef, dried Tongues, six handles, good Rum even 1 Bbl, if you could & some wine these are very dear here—Cooper's ware—I would advise your getting some good rush bottom'd Chairs 8 or 10, in preference to others as they are harder & take less room: I am getting $\frac{3}{4}$ doz. Camp Stools made. Any Tables except pine ones should have boxes made to pack them & then a great deal may be put within them, as all such Things are sure of being wrecked otherwise—indeed everything ought to be well secured—our Living here is pretty good. We have several times been supplied with good Beef & Mutton excellent dried Cod & Herring which are far superior to yours. We have Hares; Pheasants; wild Geese and Ducks—on a moderate day, a mile & a half distance is a fine Lake in which we take plenty of fine Trout, by cutting a Hole in the Ice and letting down a Line & Hook—a Gent—caught one day 33 & four of us caught 60 another day—no bad Fare—Our Society is quite agreeable & sociable without being expensive—We have the addition of the officers of a Man of War which has laid here the winter, among which is a Son of Lord Dartmouth—They have dined with me & I on board with them—There is a small Schooner here from Boston with very fine Beef—11 coppers 1 lb.

6th. March—A Storm of Snow 1 foot deep yesterday prevented the persons from setting out as intended, but they go today—when I wrote the within, my Thumb pain'd me a little from a small cut which has since fester'd & been so very painful that I could not hold my Pen but it is now a little better to admit my scratching a few more lines to my dearest Friend—I deem it most unfortunate as I wished to say a great deal—Oh, my Love how heart-aching is this long & Tedious Separation, but I flatter myself two months more will give us as happy a meeting as we have ever experienced—May God preserve your Health & prolong your days to receive a Thousand proofs of my lasting Love & affection for you and my ever dear good Children, who I hope will be a comfort & support to us in our old age & be a greater Treasure to us than all on Earth besides—Do not my Molly suffer your Fears & Apprehensions of the sea to prevail over you too far—There is not believe me half the danger you think—several Vessels not larger than Monts Boat have weathered all the most violent storms & arriv'd safe in Nova Scotia—It is said many Vessels & People are coming from York this spring, therefore I would have you engage your passage in time—supply the Family with at least two or three prs of good shoes each and bring some upper & seal leather with you—some sifted Indian meal—a Bl or two of Flour, but we get here exceedingly good Flour & Pork—my Servts are with me & Peter is faithful & usefull, the others so-so—Servts are plenty here & cheap, but you must have a steady careful woman for the Voyage & perhaps longer—I intended to write to your good Brother, but cannot now—another oppy. will offer soon & you shall both hear from me particularly—I must now conclude & send this off, may it reach Thy hand soon & be a comfort to you. My Love to my dearest Children & Kiss Them for me, tell them their fond Papa longs to embrace Them most ardently—My best regards to Miss. Cook & Family & all Friends—Pray advise me as soon as possible how & where you expect to embark for—God bless you & give you safe to the Arms of your truly fond, impatient and affte Husband,

James Boggs.

TO ROBERT MORRIS.

Dear Brother

You will doubtless be surpris'd at receipt of a line from me, and I daresay can't devine the cause that sets my pen in motion after remaining so long in a lethargic state,—why truly it is nothing less then what sets all the world in motion, namely selfintrest, you must know I have taken it lately most inaccountably in my head, to long for a gown made out of a certain figured silk sute of cloathes of your fathers, that he had made at paris, now dear Brother if you have not allotted these cloaths for your own wearing; and have otherways no perticular objection, I should esteem it a favor if you would take the earliest opportunity of sending them down to me, you need not mention the use I want them for, there is coat westcoat & one or two pair of small cloaths, and if you could throw in a westcoat that is well trim'd it would be of great service to me at present, they might be put up in the cedar chest which I want very much and sent by Price with the key seald up.

you see I have wrote you a letter not business Mr Boggs Regards wate of you, he will write, his first Leasure he yesterday Received yours of the first Instant, is much obliged to you for your orders in regard to Peter, and will Let you know when he arrives

we have been expecting you down sometime and hope you entend to take up your winter quarters with us, you know how very agreeable it would be to Mr. Boggs and cant want to be assured that it will give equal pleasure to your very affectionate

I Received with pleasure my Dear Brothers favor by Mr. Delaplain but was sorry to find by it that you was unwell—as have since heard you are presiding at Morris court presume you have Recovered your health the Ladies join me in thanking you for the news you sent us it is a rair comodity here, at least to me, it would be'n rairer still had it all been true, we have nothing new here but what the daily transactions of our general and his mermydons supply us with—that he is Returned in safty from the action at philadelphia suppose you have heard. I am much obliged to you for the pains you have taken to supply me with butter but have mett with better success myself sence you left me have engaged a firkin I believe on Reasonable terms from a man who ows money on an unsettled account,—as to the getting salt, as it is no longer necessary for my own Intrest (which is you know the moving principle of even this patriotic world) believe I must decline doing it, for tilton is so unwell he can scarcely go through with the Buisness of the farms I fear he will git quite sick—have sent your message to Mrs. Leonard but there has not been time since to git an answer, our friends here are all well the children desire ther

Shrewsbury May 12: 1778

I have just time by Mr. V Brunt to acquaint my Dear Brother that I arrived safe at home the 26th of April in tolerable health tho' not very strong, have since Received a short letter from you at Newark mentioning your kind intention of hiring the farme, I hear it is advertised, what else is to be Disposed of I don't know, if it is consistant with your Business should be extreamly glad to see you soon, perhaps you can Break off for a few days before the assembly meet, I am quite uncapable of the Business of these times, having neither spirits strength or any other quality Requisite for this Bustling world, I feel myself very friendless perhaps the sight of you (my only friend here) may Relieve me pray come if possible and believe me your truly affectionate and grateful sister

I have a trifle for you but cant send it

Mary Boggs

I just now had the pleasure of Receiving my Dear Brothers favor of the 13th Instant and acknowledge myself guilty of neglect in not sooner informing you of my situation, but as you know how little time I can command for the purpose of writing hope you will excuse me.—I removed to Black Point the 27th of April, am to pay Mr. Hartsorn 25 pounds a year for the house and land that Marsh occupyd which is twenty acres or thereabouts and have besides that eight acres for tillage which with the assistance of our neighbours we have got plowed up and planted—we could not procure our own horse again but have got a small mare from William Balsor she has more spirits than flesh and more age than either, so that our team is not quite so good as it has been—have been very quiet from all sides in my new habitation as yet, should it continue so shall think myself very happy—but should I on a sudden find myself in the midst of the polite french nation as I hear is expected hope my good Brother will not fail making me a visit when he can do it with so much safety to himself and pleasure to me, in the meantime should your leisure admit of your visiting this part of the country shall be happy to meet you any where you will appoint—I am sorry you have so troublesome a complaint as sore eyes you should not let Business prevent your taking proper care of your own health—I am sincerely sorry for Mr. G. Morris should he recover he will need all his good sense and philosophy to bear such a misfortune as the loss of a limb and at his time of Life too.

Your friends here are all well, my little ones grow finely excuse the mother Miss Kearny is with me she desires her Best Regards to you my Best wishes ever attend you and believe me your truly affectionate sister,

Halifax, Sept. 30th 1793

My Dear Brother

It is now more than a year since I sent my youngest son to your care and direction since which we have never been favored with a single line from you—I was very sensible of your friendship and kindness in sending for him and taking charge of his education and I cannot but feel the strangeness and I think unkindness of your long and unusual silence—not being conscious of meriting such neglect by any thing I have done or left undone—tis true we hear of Sammy's welfare from himself and his Brothers—we know your goodness and attention to him—but while you bestow so much on the child allow us to hope that you do not wish to forget his parents—believe me my Brother we never have or can forget you. that Becky was not so happy as to meet your approbation and regard gives me sufficient regret but I will not suppose that could be your reason for not writing, it is hardly consistant with your usual justice. I would not wish to dwell on a subject that has already given me much anxiety I will flatter myself that my Brother is not changed and that when his leisure will permit he will again bestow on us those tokens of his remembrance and affection that must ever be essential to our happiness—divided as I am from you and half of my children, with little chance of our meeting again in this life—surrounded with war and tumult I have room enough for sad reflections without the still more painful ones—of affection cooled—where mine is still warm as ever—Mr. Boggs and my children unite with me in regards to yourself and Daughter and believe me your unalterably affectionate sister

Mary Boggs.

Halifax 17 March 1794

Dear Sir

This will be presented to you, I hope, by my Son & your Nephew Thomas, who from a long absence has become solicitous to pay a Visit to his near Connections in the U. States, as he can now better spare the time from his Business, perhaps, than a year or two hence—thank God his prospects in Life are favorable & his prudent, meritorious conduct & diligence in business have both procured him Esteem & respect in this Country—Our latest Letters gave us the satisfaction of hearing that you and your Family were well. 'Tis a great happiness to us that our dear Son Samuel is in so favorable a situation for Improvement & we sincerely hope he will conduct himself with propriety & to your satisfaction for this & all your past favors & attentions we are ever grateful—God grant you a continuance of health & happiness—to Thomas we refer you for everything respecting us Your good Sister & all the Family join me in Love to you & Cousin Mary & am Dear Sir, with sincerest Regards,

Your very affectionate Brother,
James Boggs.

Halifax June 13th, 1807

After so many years of silence the hand writing of a sister will not be recognized—her heart tho ever grateful and attached has no means of expression but by her pen—but my dear and excellent Brother has ever continued his acts of kindness to me and mine to shew his constant tho silent affection—I will flatter myself that my present acknowledgment of that kindness will not be unacceptable and that I may be allowed to say how much we thank you for your late present in the Barrel and Box both of which we have safe and in good order and shall enjoy with more peculiar relish for the sake of the donor—my heart and eyes fill as I reflect on whom I am addressing—and the many years that have separated us—alas my Brother, what a change should we both see, could we now meet—tho if I may judge by the excellent likeness you have favored me with—time has laid a more lenient hand on you, than myself—your looks there, are the same you wore three and twenty years ago, and Roberts last letter, gave us the happy intelligence that both your health and looks were of late much improved—I am grieved to find that his poor fellow, are quite the contrary—but hope there is no cause for serious alarm, if he will only be attentive to himself in time, and quit that odious habit of smoking—our children here, are all going on with industry in their occupations—Thomas and Charles, have each excellent wives, and healthy fine children—your little pet Mary is I flatter myself a good wite, and mother, she has two sons and two daughters, the eldest of the latter called Mary Morris after myself, and your late dear daughter—Betsy a pattern of industry, striving for comfort and independence in the cultivation of their Farm and garden, maugre our short summers and stone-clad soil—Rebecca, still living in single blessedness, the comfort, and assistant, of her mother—My good husband the same in age as in youth, kind, social, open and friendly, ever recollecting you with Brotherly Friendship and affection, his health is remarkably good, and he wears well—I regret daily that we must ever continue strangers to the connections my eldest sons have formed and their children—Robert is old enough now, to have some judgment formed of his abilities, may they prove a credit and comfort to his parents, and maternal grandsire, who I pray may live to see their maturity—farewell dear Brother—my husband and surrounding children unite in love to you with your very affectionate sister

Mary Boggs.

Extracts of Letters of

Mrs. Julia Augusta (Boggs) Livingston, (see page 26) found in Mr. James Major Boggs who was living in 1881, at Ballybrook House, Moville, County Donegal, North of Ireland, a possible relative. (See page 4).

A letter from Mr. James Major Boggs, addressed to Mr. Henry S. Brenton (page 56), dated March 18th 1881, says in substance:—"My ancestor was William Gardner Boggs, first Mayor of Derry. My own grandfather was Comptroller of Customs for Derry, Colerain, and Ballyshannon. He married a Miss Major, whose relatives lived in New York. (See page 4). My two aunts, Misses Fanny and Mary Boggs lived in Derry."

James Major Boggs was married Feb. 23rd, 1881, at St. John's Church, Birkenhead, by Rev. W. R. Jolly, M.A., to Memi Eugaine Keith, daughter of Rev. L. F. Thomas, M. A., Cantab. Mr. Boggs was of Ballybrook House, Moville. This James Major Boggs' grandfather was possibly a cousin of Dr. James Boggs of Halifax, N. S.

Mrs. Livingston wrote May 23th, 1880, to Mrs. Anne (Boggs) Ansell, (page 41) in substance thus:—"Dr. James Boggs' parents were Ezekiel Boggs and Elizabeth Baird, an orphan and heir to a landed property near Londonderry which was seized and held by the White Boys, a Catholic party who refused to give it up and fired upon the young girl when she rode to the gates and claimed it. She educated her son carefully with a view to making a lawyer of him that he might return to Ireland and claim the estate. Just as his education was finished her house was burned and in it perished all her papers and the vouchers to her claims. He then decided to study medicine as we all know." This information Mrs. Livingston received from Dr. James Boggs' daughter Rebecca who spent the winter of 1838-9 in New York.

Mrs. Livingston also said that she had in her possession an old arithmetic book which had the name "James Boggs, Jr., 1754."

A letter from Mrs. Livingston to Miss Major, April 19th, 1880, added:—"Ezekiel Boggs came from Ireland after marrying Elizabeth Baird. She was an orphan and heir to landed property on which mills were situated near Londonderry. During her minority the place was seized and held by the White Boys. When she came of age she rode to the gates of the place accompanied by the Mayor of Londonderry, his son, and a party of armed men. The gates were fastened and the Mayor summoned the occupants to surrender the estate to the rightful heir. The answer was a volley of musketry by which the Mayor's son was wounded. The heir turned her horse away saying 'I'll not seek my own at the price of blood,' and made no further effort to recover her lost inheritance. Of her husband's antecedents I know nothing. They came out here and settled in Delaware. He probably died early. Mrs. Boggs went to New Jersey with her two children, one son and one daughter. The latter married a Mr. Risk of Philadelphia. She had an only child, Rebecca, who married Joshua Bond of Philadelphia and died childless. She educated her son carefully intending that he should study law, return to Ireland and claim the mill property. He was one of five youths taken into the family of Dr. Alleson, later the first President of Princeton, and educated by him. The others, were Chief Justice Marshall, Charles Thompson, Speaker of the first Congress, Judge McKean of Philadelphia, and a brother of Charles Thompson. When his studies were completed and he was about to enter a law office his mother's house was burnt down and in it perished all the papers by which she could substantiate her claim. He disliked the law and having no further motive to impel him towards that profession he decided to study medicine. He obtained a commission as Surgeon in the British Army which he held until retired by age. He was born Jan. 22nd, 1740, and married Nov. 24th, 1765 in New York at the house of Richard Morris, uncle and guardian of the bride, Mary, daughter of Robert Hunter Morris, Governor of New Jersey under the crown. I have an old book an Arithmetic, published in Dublin, 1747, with the name of James Boggs, Junior Oct. 10th, 1754."

Mrs. Livingston wrote to James Major Boggs of Ballybrack, Sept. 17th, 1880:—"It is very certain that an Ezekiel Boggs emigrated to America during the first half of the last century and from the fact that his grandson, my father and Mr. Major of New York being aware of their relationship through an intermarriage between the Boggs and Major families, Ezekiel Boggs must have belonged to the family from which you also descend."

Notes Concerning the Baird Family of Strabane.

The Baird of Strabane, or Grange, County Tyrone, Ireland.

Page 354. "William Baird whose name appears on the Hearth Money Roll for 1666, and another undated roll on which are the names of John Baird of Strabane, John Beard of Tatnepoil, and John Berd of Gortery, lived at Grange, near the Foyle, in the parish of Dunagheady, barony of Strabane Co. Tyrone. The greater part of this parish was granted by James I to Sir John Drummond, who founded the town of Dunamanagh where he erected a bawn. Grange derived its name from the ancient Church of Grange, now in ruins, which belonged to the Abbey of Derry. There are a number of tombstones to members of the family, that were erected by Dr. Andrew Baird, Surgeon, R. N., who lived on the estate called "Aughtermoy," near Dunamanagh. The Presbyterian Church to which William Baird of Grange probably belonged was known in the Presbyterian records as Donagheady. John Hamilton was the minister, 1658-88. He was at the Siege of Derry and was afterward minister of a church in Edinburg."

From the Kittochtinny Historical Society Papers, March 1901—Feb. 1903, page 162:—

"James Hamilton, Master of Faisley, and first Earl of Abercorn obtained a large grant in 1615, in the barony of Strabane, County Tyrone, and his descendant the Duke of Abercorn is there to this day. On this grant he built a very strong and fair castle, a schoolhouse and church. About the castle was built a town of 80 houses, many of lime and stone, in which were 120 families able to muster 200 men, every one having arms for his defence: he built a great brew house without his court and three water mills for grinding corn."

UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS.

Enquiry into their losses and services in consequence of their Loyalty, Evidence in the Canadian Claims.

Proceedings of Loyalist Commissioners, Halifax, St. John, 1785-86.
Before Commissioner Dundas.

5. Evidence in the case of Dr. Jas. Boggs, late of Monmouth County, New Jersey. Claimant sworn. Memorial read. He is a native of Delaware County. At the commencement of the trouble he resided at Shrewsbury, in New Jersey and says that he uniformly supported the British Government. He ever opposed the choosing of committees and says he never took an oath or carried arms with the Americans.

A number of Loyalists were taken up in Shrewsbury in Nov. 1776. The dread of being taken up made him fly to Sandy Hook, where he got aboard the Swan sloop of war.

He has continued under the protection of the British troops ever since.

He acted as mate in the Gen. Hospital at New York from July 1777 until Sept. 1783, when he was appointed by Sir Guy Carleton, Assist. Surgeon on the Staff. His pay in both situations has been 7s. 6d per diem.

PROPERTY: 111 acres in the township of Shrewsbury. Produces Copy of a Deed of Bargain and Sale, whereby Stoffel Loggan conveys to the claimant and his heirs a tract of land as above in Trenton Manor in consideration of £777 N. York currency, bearing date 25th May, 1773. (In this connection the margin reads: Appointment by Gen. Carleton produced 25th January, 1786. The original deed produced which agrees with the copy formerly examined).

The land was very good, part of it, about 60 acres cleared. When he bought it he made very considerable improvements, which cost him about £200 N. Y. currency. Thinks it was well worth £1000 N. York currency, but he cannot say it would have sold for so much if he had not purchased it when he did.

Another person would have given the same price for it.

He knows this property is sold under confiscation. Is required to produce copies of the records of sale under confiscation. It is in the possession of Moses Sheppard.

PERSONAL PROPERTY: Says when his claim was sent to England it was believed in New York that the lands only would be attended to as claims.

Requests a few days to arrange the remaining part of his claim.

Lt. Col. Elisha Lawrence, late of Monmouth County, New Jersey sworn:

Knew the claimant in America and as far as he could judge he acted as a loyal subject, and joined the British army in Decemb. 1776.

He knew his farm in Shrewsbury township. It was tolerably good, and about half cleared. Lands in that neighborhood sold for £8 or £9 N. Y. currency per acre.

The claimant practised Phisick, and had the first business in the township. Lawrence Hartshorn, affirmed:

Says he knew Dr. Boggs at Shrewsbury. He was a very loyal man and uniformly so. Knew his farm. Thinks that it was worth £1000 N. York currency, with the house and improvements on it.

Dr. Boggs had all the practice of the town. Thinks he might clear £150 currency per an. by his profession. Has been told that the stock, etc., has been all taken from the family.

Further evidence in the case of Dr. Jas. Boggs. (In the margin: 1758 Dec. 12). Claimant sworn: Produces an acct. of different articles of personal property, which were sold under confiscation. Mrs. Boggs was present when the whole was sold: 1777.

Mary Boggs, wife of the claimant, sworn:

She remained behind her husband at Shrewsbury and recollects all the articles contained in the list delivered in, were all sold by the Committee of Sequestration. Thinks they were all charged under their real value. Two of the houses were valuable.

Note: In July 1783 the British Parliament urged by the King to treat the Loyalists with "a due and generous attention" appointed a commission of five members to classify the losses and services.

5. John Marsh, Esq.
