LINCOLN UNIVERSITY.

testant faith. A resident in a city largely Roman Catholic, he fearlessly and persistently, and with the loss of popularity, defended the evangelical liberties and doctrines of the Reformation.

A citizen in a slave State, he always regarded his colored fellowmen as his brethren in the Lord. He felt the wrongs which they suffered. He sought to remove their personal and religious disabilities, which disqualified them for their duties, and delayed their emancipation. He shared with them in his Master's name all the blessings of the gospel.

In these views he was in hearty accord with the design of Lincoln University, where, without foreknowledge of the future of our colored population, Trustees and Faculty and Friends are practically communicating to as many as we can reach, the blessing of Christian education as the best means of fitting them for the responsibilities and duties to which God has called them.

OPINIONS RESPECTING THE WORK OF LINCOLN UNIVERSITY.

President JAMES McCOSH, College of New Jersey.

The College for colored youths, at Lincoln University, Chester County, Pennsylvania, has many and powerful claims on the Christian public. I have visited it on two different occasions, and I am able to bear my testimony to the high character of its Professors (most of them graduates from Princeton), and the effective teaching which the students receive. I found the answering of the pupils quite up to the average in our Colleges, and giving clear evidence of the capacity of the African race to receive and be benefited by instruction in the higher branches. I am convinced that the race is to be elevated by giving a high education to the better minds among them, that they may, as Ministers of the Gospel, and in the various professions, call forth the energies of their people.

Judge ALLISON, Philadelphia, Pa.

It has been in both my heart and mind to write before this, of the performances of the graduates of Lincoln University at Association Hall. I have delayed doing so, only because, of late, the demands upon my time have been constant and exacting, so that which was behind has prevented my attending to some things which lay before me: —among others, this call to say a word for Lincoln.
