

London Jan 21. 1764
My Dear

By the goodness of God
I am, and have been in good state of Health since I wrote to you last, excepting some Pains I have had several times. I rejoice to hear, and thank you for your health. I'll remember, - let us endeavour to put our trust in God at all times, - I am glad to hear you I hope is at Mr. White's, let him stay there till he knows how to behave better - and as you try to improve your spirits as well as you can, - I would have no objection to be sent to you, and I hope you have received it or will receive it, pay me what is due as you can - My Love, get some Painful Hand to write you Letters of thanks, to the Ladies who wrote you Letters, and sent you Presents from Bristol. We have returned to London again a few days ago, and shall stay here till spring, I'll give you all, and to all my friends I am as ever, your loving and Loving Husband, James Oglethorpe
