

S: BIBLE HOUSE, NEW YORK.

RevT. De Witt Talmage, D.D., Editor.

RISTIAN

COPVRIGHT 1898, BY LOUIS KLOPSCH. NEW YORK, JULY 20, 1898. VOLUME 21.-NUMBER 29. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

ERALD

1E BUGLER SOUNDING "CHURCH" ON SUNDAY MORNING, IN AN AMERICAN MILITARY CAMP. (See Page 591).

on the Text: Job 2:4 •• •

HAT is untrue. The Lord did not say it, but Satan said it to the Lord when the evil one wanted Job still more afflicted. The record is : "So went Sa-tan forth from the presence of the Lord, and smote Job with sore boils." And Satan smote Job with sore boils." And Satan has been the author of all eruptive dis-ease since then, and he hopes by poison-ing the blood to poison the soul. But the result of the diabolical experiment which left Job victor proved the faisity of the Satanic remark : "All that a man hath will be give for his life." Many a cap-tain who has stool on the bridge of the tain who has stood on the bridge of the steamer till his passengers got off and he drowned; many an engineer who has kept his hand on the throttle valve or his grip on the brake, until the most of the train was saved, while he went down to death through the open draw-bridge; many a fireman who plunged into a blazing house to get a sleeping child out, the tireman sacrificing his life in the attempt, and the thousands of martyrs who sub-mitted to hery stake and knite of massa-cre and headman's axe and guillotine rather than surrender principle, proving that in many a case my text was not true when it says: "All that a man hath will be give for his life. when it says: "All that a man hath will be give for his life. But Satan's falsehood was built on a truth. Life is very precious, and if we would not give up all, there are many things we would surrender rather than surrender it. We see how precious life is things we would surrender rather than surrender it. We see how precious life is from the fact that we do everything to prolong it. Hence all sanitary regulations, all study of hygeine, all fear of draughts, all waterproofs, ail doctors, all medicines, all struggle in crisis or accident. Life is precious. Yea, there are those who deem life so precious they would like to repeat it: they would like to try it over again. They would like to go back from seventy to sixty, from sixty to fity, from fity to forty, from forty to thirty, and from thirty to twenty. I propose for very practical and useful purposes, as will ap-pear before I get through, to discuss the question we have all asked of others, and others have again and again asked of us, Would you like to live your life over again? aga

The fact is, that no intelligent and right-feeling man is satisfied with his past lite. However successful your life may have been, you are not satisfied with it. What is success? Ask that question of a hundred different men, and they will give a bundred different answers. One man What is success? Ask that question of a hundred different men, and they will give a bundred different answers. One man will say, "Success is a million dollars:" another will say, "Success is world-wide publicity;" another will say, "Success is gaining that which you started for." But as it is a free country I give my own defi-nition, and say, "Success is fulfilling the particular mission upon which you were sent, whether to write a constitution, or invent a new style of wheelbarrow, or take care of a sick child." Do what God calls you to do, and you are a success, whether you leave a million dollars at death or are buried at public expense, whether it takes ifteen pages of an encyclopadia to tell the worlerfullt mgs you have done, or your not or is never printed but once, and that is the death column. But whatever you succes has been, you are not satis-ned wit, your fie. We have all made so many mistakes, stumbled into so many things that ought not to have been done, that we can surgest at least 35 per cent of improvement. Now, would it not be ar ind it the good Lord would say to your. "You can go back and try it over again. I will, by a word turn your har to black, or brown, or wold turn your har to black, or brown, or wold turn your har to black, or brown, or wold turn your har to black, or brown, or wold turn your har to black or brown, or wold turn your har to black, or brown, or wold turn your har to black, or brown, or wold turn your har to black, or brown, or wold turn your har to black, or brown, or cold en, and smooth all the writes of to to your temple or cheek, and take the bend out of your should be wrinkles of tot your temple or check, and take the bend out of your sboulders, and exirtpate the stituess from the joint, and the rife unitie twinge from the foot, and you shall be

.) for his life. twenty-one years of age, and just what you were when you reached that point be-fore. If the proposition were made I thing many thousands would accept it. That feeling caused the ancient search for what was called the Fountain of Youth, the waters of which, taken, would turn the hair of the octogenarian into the curly locks of a boy, and however old a person who drank at that fountain, he would be young again. The Island was said to belong to the group of Bahamas, but lay far out in the ocean. The great Spanish explorer, Juan Ponce de Leon, fellow-voyager of Columbus. I have no doubt, felt that if he could discover that Fountain of Youth, he would do as much as his friend had done in discovering America. So he put out in 1512 from America. So he put out in 1512 from Porto Rico and cruised about among the Porto Rico and cruised about among the Bahamas in search of that fountain. I am glad he did not find it. There is no such fountain. But if there were, and its wa-ters were bottled up and sent abroad at a thousand dollars a bottle, the demand would be greater than the supply; and many a man who has come through a life of uselessness, and perhaps sin, to old age would be shaking up the potent li-quid, and if he were directed to take only a teaspoonful after each meal, would be so anxious to make sure work he would take a tablespoonful, and if directed to take a tablespoonful, would take a glassful.

tablespoonful, would take a glassful. But some of you would have to go back further than to twenty-one years of age to make a fair start, for there are many to make a fair start, for there are many who manage to get all wrong before that period. Yea, in order to get a fair start, some would have to go back to the father and mother and get them corrected ; yea, to the grandfather and grandmother, and have their life corrected, for some of you are suffering from bad hereditary in-fluences which started a hundred years ago. Well, if your grandfather lived his life over again, and your father lived his have only one chance, and then for them to pass off and give another generation a chance. Tesides that, if we were permit-ted to live live his were in the started and nce. Pesides that, if we were perm to live life over again, it would be chance. permitstale and stupid experience. The zest and spur and enthusiasm of life come from the fact that we have never been along this road before, and everything is new, and we are alert for what may appear at the next turn of the road. Suppose you, a man of mid-life or old age, were, with your present feelings and large attain-ments, put back into the thirties, or the twenties, or in the teens, what a nuisance you would be to others, and what an un-happiness to yourself! Your contemporaries would not want you, and you would not want them. Things that in your pre-vious journey of life stirred your healthful arie not want them. ambition, or gave you pleasurable surprise, or led you into happy interrogation, would only call forth from you a disgusted "Oh, pshaw!" Yon would be blase at thirty, and a misanthrope at forty, and unendur-able at fifty. The most inane and stupid thing imaginable would be a second jour thing imaginable would be a second journey of life. Besides that, if you took life over again you would have to take its deep sadnesses over again. Would you want to try again the griefs and the hearthreaks and the be-What a mercy that we heat threads and the be-reavements through which you have gooe? What a mercy that we shall never be call ed to suffer them again ! We may have others bad enough, but those old ones never again. Would you want to go through the process of losing your father allown or your mother again, or your com-

Brough the process of losing your father atain, or your mother again, or your com-pan on in life again, or your child again? Besides that, would yon want to risk the teroptations of life over again? From the fact that you are here 1 conclude that, though in many respects your life may have been infortunate and inconsecrated, you have got on so far tolerably well, if nothing more than tolerable. As for myself, though my life has been far from be-ing as consecrated to God as I would like to have had it. I would not want to try it over again, lest next time I would do

Why, just look at the temptations we have all passed through, and just look at the multitudes who have gone completely under! Just call over the roll of your school-mates and college-mates, the clerks who were with you in the same store or bank, or the operatives in the same fac-tory, with just as good prospects as you, who have come to complete mishap. Some young man that told you that he was go-ing to be a millionaire, and own the fastest trotters on the turnpike, and retire by the time he was thirty-five years of age, you do not hear from for many years, and know nothing about him until some day he comes into your store and asks for five cents to get a mug of beer. You, the good mother of a household, and all your children rising up to call you blessed, can remember when you were quite jealous of the belle of the village, who was so transcendently fair and popuwho was so transcendently fair and popu-lar. But while you have these two honor-able and queenly names of wife and mother, she became a poor waif of the street, and went into the blackness of darkness forever. Live life over again? Why, if many of those who are respecta-ble recommendated to empriment the part ble were permitted to experiment, the next journey would be demolition. You get through as Job says, by the skin of your through as job says, by the skin of your teeth. Next time you might not get through at all. Better go forward than back-ward, even if we had the choice. The greatest disaster I can think of would be for you to return to boyhood in 1898. Oh, for you to return to boyhood in 1898. Oh, if life were a smooth Luzerne or Cayuga Lake, I would like to get into a yacht and sail over it, not once, but twice—yea, a thousand times. But life is an uncertain sea, and some of the ships crash on the icebergs of cold indifference, and some take fire of evil passions, and some lose their bearings and run into the Coodwin take hre of evil passions, and some lose their bearings and run into the Goodwin Sands, and some are never heard of. Surely on such a treacherous sea as that one voyage is enough. Besides all this, do you know, if you could have your wish and live life over again, it would put you so much further from reunion with your friends in heaven? You are now let us say twenty usars or You are now, let us say, twenty years, or ten years, or one year off from celestial conjunction. Now, suppose you went back in your earthly life thirty years, or forty years, or fifty years, what an awful post-ponement of the time of reunion! It ponement of the time of reunion: It would be as though you were going to San Francisco to a great banquet, and you got to Oakland, four or five miles this side of it, and then came back all the way to Baltimore to get a better start. No; the wheel of time turns in the right direction, and it is well it turns so fast. Three hundred and sixty-five revolutions

Three hundred and sixty-five revolutions in a year and forward, rather than 365 revolutions in a year and backward. But hear ye! hear ye! while I tell you how you may practically live your life over again and be all the better for it. You may put into the remaining years of your life all you have learned of wisdom in your past life. You may make the com-ing ten years, worth the preceding forty or fifty years. When a man says he would like to live his life over again because he would do so much better, and yet goes right on living as he has always lived, do you not see he stultifies hinself? He proves that if he could go back he would do almost the same as he has done. do almost the same as he has done do almost the same as he has done. If a man eat green apples some Wed-nesday in cholera time and is thrown into fearful cramps, and says on Thursday : "1 wish 1 had been more prudent in my diet; oh, if 1 could live Wednesday over again" and then on Friday eats apples just as green, he proves that it would have been no advantage for him to live Wednesday. prech, he proves that it would have been no advantage for him to live Wednesday over again. And if we, deploring our past life, and with the idea of improve-ment, long for an opportunity to try it over again, yet go on making the same mis-takes and committing the same sins, we only demonstrate that the repetition of only demonstrate that the repetition of our existence would afford no improvement. It was green apples before, and it would be green apples over-again.

Besides that we have all these years been learning how to be useful, and in the next decade we ought to accomplish more for God and the Church and the world than in any previous four decades. The best way to atone for past indolence or past transgression is by future assidu Yet we often find Christian men who w not converted until they were forty fifty, as old age comes on, saying : "W my work is about done, and it is time me to rest." They gave forty years me to rest." They gave forty years their life to Satan and the world, a li fragment of their life to God, and r they want rest. Whether that belong:

they want rest. Whether that belong: comedy or tragedy I say not. My hearers, the mistakes of youth never be corrected. Time gone is go forever. An opportunity passed the di-sandth part of a second has by one I-reached the other side of a great etern In the autumn when the birds mig you look up and see the sky black w wings, and the flocks stretching out i many leagues of air, and so to-day I l-up and see two large wings in full swt They are the wings of the flying y That is followed by a flock of three I dred and sixty-five, and they are the fly dred and sixty-five, and they are the fi days. Each of the flying days is follo-by twenty-four, and they are the fly hours, and each of these is followed hours, and each of these is followed sixty, and these are the flying minu Where did this great flock start fro Eternity past. Where are they bou Eternity to come. You might as we a-gunning for the quails that whistled year in the meadows, or the robins to bet were correled in the educes to be last year caroled in the sky, as to tr fetch down and bag one of the past portunities of your life. Do not say: will lounge now and make it up at ward." Young men and boys, you c make it up. My observation is that ti who in youth sowed wild oats, to the of their short life sowed wild oats. that those who start sowing ( wheat always sow Genesee wheat.

wheat always sow Genesee wheat. And then the reaping of the harves so different. There is grandfather r. He has lived to old age because his ha-have been good. His eyesight for world has got somewhat dim, but eyesight for heaven is radiant. His h ing is not so acute as it once was, and must bend clear over to hear what s-little grandchild says when she asks what he has brought for her. But easily catches the nusic rained from pernal spheres. Men passing in the str take off their hats in reverence, and w en say: "What a good old man he Seventy or eighty years, all for God 1 for making this world happy. Splew for making this world happy. Splew Glorious! Magnificent!

Out yonder is a man very old at f ears of age, at a time when he ongh be buoyant as the morning. He got a habits on him very early, and those ha habits on him very early, and those has have become worse. He is a man or on fire with alcoholism, on fire with evil habits, ont with the world and world out with him. Down, and tal-deeper. His swollen hands in his the bare pockets, and his eyes fixed on of ground, he passes through the street. I the quick step of an innocent child or extrange step of a boung way or the role strong step of a young man or the role a prosperous carriage maddens him, he curses society and he curses God 11 en sick, with no resources, he is car to the almshouse. A loathsome spect, he lies all day long waiting for dissolu-or in the night rises on his cot and hi apparitions of what he might have 1 and what he will be. He started life as good a prospect as any man on American continent, and there he bloated carcass, waiting for the shove public charity to put him five feet un Ile has only reaped what he sowed. In vest of wild oats! "There is a way seemeth right to a man, but the end the of is death." of is death." To others life is a masquerade

To others life is a masquerade and as at such entertainments gentle i and ladies put on the garb of kings queens or mountebanks, or clowus at the close put off the disguise, s great many pass their whole life i mask, taking off the mask at de While the masquerade ball of life is on they trin merrily over the fl While the masquerade ball of life i on, they trip merrily over the fi gemmed hand is stretched to gem hand, gleaming brow bends to glean brow. On with the dance ! Finsh rustle and laughter of mmcasur merry-making. But after awhile the guor of death comes on the limbs blurs the eyesight. Lights lower. F hollow with sepulchral echo. Music damed into a will. Lights lower. blus the eyesight. Lights lower. I hollow with sepulchral echo. Music dened into a wail. Lights lower. the maskers are only seen in the light. Now the fragrance of the flov-is like the sickening odor that co-from garlands that have lain long in le The Hermit Nation -36-

Strange Customs of Dress and Social Duriss the Missionaries are Successfully Laboring. Ceceecececececece By MRS. S. L. BALDWIN. Department in Sedan to travel. When the river is high, this is the solution of the solution is simply an extension of the chairs for our long journey of twenty-six miles to

-24-

Seoul, the Capital of Korea. The atmospher e atmosphere was superb, clear. crisp, and dry. We h a d plenty of rugs. and I had Korean wadded m u s l i n shoes over my feet, and was in a cov ered chair sent from Seoul for me. We each had six bearers, two ex-ers, two ex-KOREAN INDOOR COSTUME. tra to rest the others. At intervals, we followed the bed of the new railroad nearly all the way. This is the first railroad in Korea, and it is to be completed next August. The road-bed is well advanced toward Seoul, aud we met Mr. Phillips, of Chattanooga, who was supervising this part of the work. He is said to be the tallest man in Korea, being six feet six, and gigantic he looked among his diminutive Korean workmen. Some one has said that Korea is made Some one has said that Korea is made up of mountain ranges with narrow val-to travel. When the river is high, this whole plain is simply an extension of the stream, and busy with boat life. Three miles beyond is the city with its 250.000 people, and back of it stand the rugged lofty mountains clear against the sky. It was most interesting to see the troops of was most interesting to see the troops of people—mostly men—so conspicuous in their white dress, and like small white-moving specks on the distant mountain sides. filing over the vast sand plain aud narrow mountain · aths. We arrived at the Han River at 5 P. M., and were carried in our chairs into the broad flat boats, and soon ferried across.

The three miles remaining to the capi-tal were quickly passed. Seoul is a walled city, and we entered at the great Southern gate — the "Gate of Honor," and were

"Gate of Honor," and were soon welcomed at the cozy Korean home of Mrs. Scranton, the moth-er of the doctor, and the first representative of the first representative of the M. E. Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in this land and the founder of its work for women. Greatly and deservedly Greatly and deserventy is she loved by the peo-ple, and they give her the endearing title "Mother." The work she com-menced and to which she still gives her labor, now requires many hands and hearts to care for. Dr.

and women gave of their extreme poverty and put up the church upon which there yet remained a debt of $1.250; but they are all very happy to have a place in which to meet and worship God, where which to meet and worship God, where they can breathe pure air instead of stifting as they had done in their crowd-ed quarters. This church is to have seats, and the Coreans will learn to occupy them instead of the floor; and ere long I am sure that the separating curtain between the men and women will be only a memory of the past, as it is largely in the missions of China to-day. When floor people, like the Japanese and Coreans, adopt chairs and bedsteads, and the separating curtain disappears I feel thatChrist's church is well established. In the Corean mission there disappears I feel thatChrist's church is well established. In the Corean mission there are the usual outits of boys' and girls' schools, medical and Bible work, and best of all the Gospel is faithfully preached by men and women. Six hundred mem-bers were added to the church between last May and November, and the extent of the work is only measured by the limit of workers.

of workers. We were greatly impressed by the earnestness and zeal of the people and their readiand their readi-ness to contrib-ute to the sup-port of the Gos-pel. In some of the country stations, the mem-bers, without a word to the mis-sionary, have built little chapbuilt little chap-els for worship, and in one case a young man sold his rice fields to p a y a balance due on such a chapel. Korea is wide open to the wide open to the Gospel, and we have it in the United States. Can we withhold it from our brother in - need with-out blood guilti-ness? The North-ern American and Australian Pres by terians, and Eniografia,

A PALACE COURTIER. Southern Methodists and Episcopalians are also working here, while the Greek Church has a magnificent cathedral. Seoul is in the main a well built and fine city for the East. We saw the immense old curfew bell suspended in its pavilion. It used to be the law that when this bell was struck at eight o'clock in the evening all the men in the city must go into their houses and the women were allowed to go out and stay as long as they pleased, or until the bell was again struck, which was between one and two in the morning. If any man was found in the streets during these hours he was severely punished. The explanation of this strange custom is that men are given to plots and evil deeds in the dark, but that there is no fear of anything of the kind from the women!

women! The peculiar hat of the men also has a history. It was a compulsory article of dress, and the brim had to be not less than twelve inches wide to prevent the men from putting their heads close to-gether to whisper and plot. The brim is now only about four inches wide and I be-lieve the hat is no longer compulsory, though universal: but the women wear no hats, save now and then a close-fitting cap, and their hair is dressed very neatly in a coil at the back of the head. Boys and girls alike wear their hair in a plaited in a coil at the back of the head. Boys and girls alike wear their hair in a plaited braid down the back, tied with ribbon. When a boy is to be married he pins up his hair on top of his head, puts on the tall hat which has a hole in the top for his bunch of hair, and he is a man. If he should never marry—we heard of one such case—he still wears his hair in braid down his hack, buts on heat had and is such case—he still wears his hair in braid down his back, puts on no tall hat, and is corever a boy. The little girls' dress is just like the boy's until she is to be mar-ried, when she puts her hair up in the pretty coil, and she is a woman. In some parts of the country some of the women when they go out wear immense wicker hats that cover the entire body, and when they are in a tent they sit down they are in a tent.

became intolerable, and they determined that somehow they must have a church. So the missionaries, including those of the Woman's Board, contributed according to their ability, and the native men leys between, and so it seems. The hills and valleys are barren of vegetation at this season, save here and there a stunted growth of pine trees. Yet, the country the half-way town, where we met Dr. W. B. Scran-ton, medical missionary at Seoul, and took our lunch at Seoul, and took our lunch at a Japanese inn, where we were served by a Japanese wom ofFICIAL. an, with no embarrassment to herself, but as one gentlemen said, "with embarrassing boldness to us." Our lunch was hard boiled eggs, bread and butter and tea, and meat that the woman called chicken, but which we were sure had possessed four legs and two horns. Four miles from Seoul we came to a vast sandy plain, a full mile across, bor-dering the Han River, and most difficult

Scranton Mr. and Mrs. Appenzeller, and Mr. and Mrs. Bunker, "Mother Scran-ton," the Misses Rothweiler, Paine. Frey, Lewis and Pierce and Drs. Cutter, Hall and Harris. A royal company, but they have the most poorly outfitted places and means of work of any mission I have seen. At Won San another centre about trees. Yet, the country is far from unattractive, and in the warmer months, when clothed in verdure, must be fine. Our strong, cheery bear-ers made good time to the helf war town where seen. At Won San, another centre about a hundred miles away, Dr. and Mrs. Mc-Gill are alone, while at Pyeng Yang, Dr. Follwell and Mr. Noble are trying in vain to meet the needs of the rapidly advancing work. The third new M. E. Church that we have found in the East has just been completed and dedicated here in Seoul. The General M. E. Missionary Society here overlibuted nothing toward this huild. The General M. E. Missionary Society has contributed nothing toward this build-ing. The Christians had so multiplied that there was absolutely no room to ac-commodate them, so they divided the men and boys worshipping in the small chapel of the Boys' Institute, while the women and girls crowded into the low na-tive girls' school-room. This arrangement heaven intolerable, and they determined Lights out.

M s gather in the room. Glasses shake is lough quaked by sudden thunder.

Si caught in the curtain. Scarf drops fro the shoulder of beauty a shroud. Li ts lower. Over the slippery boards in nice of death glide jealousies, envies, reinges, lust, despair, and death. Stench of mp-wicks almost extinguished. Torn gauds will not half cover the ulcerated fet Choking damps, chilliness. Feet sti Hands closed. Voices hushed. Eyes nvite you to quit all that and begin a life. Roland went into battle. Char-ne life. Roland went into 'battle. Char-ler gne's army had been driven back by "hobree armies of the Saracens, and Roar almost in despair took up the trum-pend blew three blasts in one of the notatin passes, and under the power of the three blasts the Saracens recoiled the three blasts the Saracens recoiled in led in terror. But history says that whe head blown the third blast Ro-lars strumpet broke. I take this trum-e of the gospel and I blow the first le: "Whosoever will." I blow the send blast: "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found." I blow the third bla: "Now is the accepted time." But the trumpet does not break. It was ha ed down by our fathers, to us, and we ill hand it down to our children, that aft we are dead they may blow the trum-pe elling the world that we have a par-dong God, a loving God. a sympathetic dong God, a loving God. a sympathetic Gc and that more to him than the throne

Go and that more to him than the throne on hich he sits is the joy of seeing a pr gal putting his thumb on the latch of s father's house. Turn ye, turn ye, for why will ye die, oh, house of Israel?" 'ung man, as you cannot live life oxt again, however you may long to do so, e sure to have your one life right. The is some young man who has gone or from home perhans under some life aw from home, perhaps under some lit-tle ite or evil persuasion of another, and i nood years.

los f a son. Do vounink your fa-the syst alive? " Th young man said "I am the sate "I am the on son of my fat :I hope he is stil live." Then said the Inenchieftain, "Because of :loss of my son this wo is a desert. You go ire Return to your coun-try in. Revisit your fath-er, at hemay rejoice when he sees the sun tisca the morning and the trees blossom et, at he may rejoice when he sees the sub-riser the morning and the trees blossom in a spring." So I say to you, young ma captive of waywardness and sin: Yo father is waiting for you. Your moer is waiting for you. Your sisters are aiting for you. God is waiting for you Go home! Go home!

A MILITARY OFFICIAL.